Illegal Liquor Sales Flourish in City

Reporter Buys Four Bottles in 2 Hours

By John McLean
Bulletin Staff Reporter

It's easy to buy bootleg whiskey in Edmonton — if you've got the price.

The 10 p.m. shutdown of government liquor stores is no stumbling block for the Edmontonian who "needs" a bottle after that time.

Last night I bought four illegal bottles from four different persons in two hours.

You don't have to "know" anyone to get liquor after hours in Edmonton.

I was a complete stranger to all four. They asked no questions.

OVER DOUBLE PRICE

Bootleg booze is going at a high price in Edmonton. Current rate is $5 for 13 ounces, $10 for a 26-ounce bottle.

Although it's easy to pick up a bottle, it isn't as easy to buy whiskey by the glass.

Taxi drivers told me there are two places in Edmonton where you can buy alcohol by the glass. They said the operator of one establishment had gone to Vancouver. The other, they said, "had the wind up" and was "taking it easy for awhile."

I bought all four bottles from Jasper avenue taxi drivers. It

Mild Spell To Continue

Alberta's weather is going to keep on being the California variety.

Forecasters at the Edmonton weather station could see nothing on the weather front this morning which would put an end to the daytime temperatures which are running 15 degrees higher than normal for this time of year.

Yesterday city thermometers climbed to 47 above at shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon and the overnight low dropped to only 24 at seven this morning which is six degrees above the normal low readings.

Garson Should Resign, CCF-er Tells Commons

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Angus MacInnis, CCF-Vancouver East) said bluntly in the Commons today that Justice Minister Garson should resign because of the way he handled the report of an alleged price-fixing combine in the flour-milling industry.

He made the statement as members continued clause-by-clause study of a bill aimed at strengthening the Combines Investigation Act.

Mr. MacInnis said he agreed with George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that the justice minister had placed himself in a position where he should not be given any more powers under the Combines Investigation Act.

CLAIMS 'SUSPICION'

Mr. MacInnis said the minister had failed to table the combines report within the 15 days required by law. As a result there was a "suspicion" throughout the country that the minister and the government were not favorable to prosecutions under the Combines Investigation Act.

"The justice minister should resign and a new minister should be appointed to administer this act," said Mr. MacInnis.

Mr. Drew said he wished to submit that Mr. Garson had not the right to prosecute any Canadian for breach of the law. The minister himself had broken the law and placed himself in "contempt" of parliament.

REJECTS STATEMENT

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said he must reject the government statement that the flour millers were granted wartime immunity from Canada's anti-price fixing laws.

Mr. Drew said "the government has been in breach and contempt of parliament for 10 months." He charged that Mr. Garson had failed to recognize the seriousness of his action in withholding publication of the report for 10 months.

He reiterated a demand that the minister give assurance that such "breach of the law" would not happen again. The government attitude appeared to be that it still thought it had had the right to break the law in regard to the flour-milling report. If that were so, there was no assurance that it would not be repeated.

Calgary Has New Mayor

CALGARY, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Ald. Don Mackay, 35, early today was elected mayor of Calgary with an ultimate majority of 2,368 on the third count of ballots in yesterday's civic election. Calgary uses the preferential vote system.

Runner-up in the four-way contest was Ald. Paul Brecken. J. C. Watson, present mayor running for his third two-year term, was eliminated on the second count.

Lethbridge-born, Mackay is the youngest mayor in Calgary's history.

His total on the third count was 16,374 against Brecken's 14,006.

Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, P. N. R. Morrison, R. T. Alderman, R. B. Corley and Mrs. Mary Dover were elected to council. There were eight vacancies.

Public School trustees elected were Rev. Dr. F. S. Morley, P. P. C. Haigh, Archie Edwards and Mrs. Mary Hart.

Ratepayers approved a $2,000,000 storm-sewer by-law 10,531 to 524.

Death Penalty Appeal Filed

Appeal against the death sentence of Wilfred Leslie Nowell, 45-year-old Edmonton army veteran, has been filed in Supreme Court, it was learned here today.

Nowell was found guilty of shooting his employer, Thomas Law, Edmonton sign contractor.

He was sentenced last month by Alberta Supreme Court Justice Boyd McBride to hang February 22.

The July 25 shooting occurred in the office of Mr. Law, whose shop is located only a few paces from the city police station.

Before sentence was passed, Nowell made a statement to the court accusing a crown witness of perjury.

PROTEST IN HOUSE

MP's to Play Hookey For Grey Cup Game

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP) — Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West) solemnly informed Prime Minister St. Laurent today there must be some mistake behind the prime minister's request that the Commons sit Saturday to speed the drive for prorogation.

The sittings, he said, should be called for Varsity Stadium, Toronto, because that was where the majority of members would be—watching Calgary and Montreal in the Grey Cup final.

The prime minister—whose notice of a Saturday sitting was placed on this morning's order paper—equally solemnly replied that he hoped members' sense of public responsibility "will prevail over their desires" to see the game.

Mr. Smith promptly assured him that, with him, the final comes first.

The Speaker, Ross Macdonald, assured Mr. Smith that his sympathies were all with him.

A second notice of intention to play hookey came from Frank Lennard (PC, Wentworth), a former Canadian Rugby Football Union official, who said "it's an insult to the sports fraternity" to have the house sit Saturday.

He said the Calgary-Ottawa final last year did more for east-west unity than "this house has been able to do in the last 10 years. The game this year would do the same.

The Speaker finally cut the discussion short by saying the motion for the Saturday sitting was not before the house yet anyway. It is due to come up officially tomorrow.

Boy, Six, Is Killed At Play

Mother Watches As Child Dies Under Truck Wheel

Six-year-old Ronnie McCready of 11310-96 street was killed instantly yesterday after falling under the rear wheels of a truck.

He was the 20th person killed on city streets this year.

The lad had been playing with a chum and two stray dogs on a 96 street boulevard when the accident occurred at 4.25 p.m.

According to an eye-witness report the lad fell under the truck wheels after chasing one of the dogs out on the road.

Ron. McCready

Driver of the truck, Alexander Gibbons of 13135-122 street, told police he stopped his truck after he felt a slight bump.

Ronnie, according to police, had been playing with five-year-old Jackie Brown of 11317-97 street when he dashed out from between two parked cars and fell under the rear wheels of the truck.

Jackie's mother, Mrs. Brown, was a few feet behind the two rollicking boys when Ronnie dashed out on to the road.

The trio had been returning from a shopping expedition at a corner grocery store. On the way back the boys started to frolic with the two stray dogs.

RAN AFTER DOG

Then, according to R. H. Mieske of 8708-119 avenue, who was sitting on his front steps, Ronnie chased one of the dogs out on the road.

Truck driver Gibbons told police he saw a lad dash out from between two parked cars. He sounded his horn. Then the lad disappeared from sight. He slowed down his truck. He passed by the parked car when he felt a bump.

On arrival of city ambulance Dr. J. H. Conroy reported the boy dead. Body was taken to Park Memorial funeral home, where a preliminary inquest will be held today by provincial coroner Dr. M. M. Cantor.

Ronnie, a grade two student at Norwood school, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. McCready, and a sister, Edith.

Tickets Scalp At $50 Pair

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(BUP)—Gus, the hapless football fan who never gets a break but a bad one, had more to moan about today.

Ticket scalpers cocked one eye at the cost of living—or something—and promptly upped prices for harder-then-hard-to-get seats for Saturday's east-west football final at Varsity Stadium.

Ducats, scarce as they were, were selling for $30 a pear at the first of the week.

Today, however, with the arrival of Calgary-Montreal fans, prices were up—but up!—to $50.

Bogus Tickets To Game Sold

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—Possibility that Toronto may be due for a flood of counterfeit tickets to Saturday's Grey Cup game between Calgary Stampeders and Montreal Alouettes is being checked today by police.

The investigation was touched off when police learned tickets to the football game were being sold yesterday in a downtown restaurant.

LIQUOR--AND IT'S ALL ILLEGAL

BOOTLEG LIQUOR is easily obtained in Edmonton. Bulletin reporter John McLean bought four 12-ounce bottles of whisky from city taxi drivers between 10:30 and 12:30 last night. He paid $5 for each bottle worth $1.90, was asked no questions although unknown to all four men.

Toronto Rubbernecks As Calgary Blows In

By Jack Sullivan
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Toronto opened the door, threw away the key and gave a royal welcome today to more than 300 whooping, football-crazy Calgary fans.

There were speeches, bands, a few songs and square-dances—and a big traffic bottleneck in the downtown area.

Stampede supporters, wearing their now-famous 10-gallon cowboy hats, colorful shirts and high-heeled boots, travelled 3,000 miles to watch their dominion champions tangle with Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup final here Saturday.

Everything went off on schedule except the arrival of Mayor Hiram McCallum. He was five minutes late.

A fife-and-drum band, with lariat tossing majorettes leading the way, marched up and down in front of the Union station with hundreds of rubbernecking Torontonians flocking around.

at premium prices, police said. The tickets he purchased resemble legitimate ones, but the paper on which they are printed is more flimsy.

Ozzie Ostrich Sold To Zoo

Borden Park zoo now has an ostrich—its very own.

City commissioners have bought controversial Ozzie from a small circus for $250, and a local business firm has donated a classy, glass-front building in which to house him.

Parks Department Superintendent Sandy Patterson said today the building, which now reposes near the exhibition grounds fire hall, is already insulated. It will be moved to a spot near the zoo buildings and heated for the winter.

Oz will be on display through his living room window whenever the blinds are up.

Socreds Take Aim At Federal House

4-Year-Drive Is Proposed

By Pat McVean
Bulletin Staff Reporter

CALGARY, Nov. 24.—Alberta's Social Credit MP's will begin almost immediately "working" specially-assigned constituencies in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia in a four-year program to capture federal house power in the next Canadian election.

Premier E. C. Manning said the nation-wide march will lead the Social Credit party to Ottawa—or to oblivion.

Social Crediters are at the crisis of their 20-year history he told the Women's Auxiliary of the Social Credit League here yesterday.

"It is now or never," he warned. "If we fail (to put across Social Credit theories on a Canadian scale) within the four years at our disposal, we will have very seriously prejudiced our cause."

ONTARIO, SASK. AND B.C.

Mrs. Manning, honorary president of the Women's Auxiliary, echoed her husband's words:

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to answer questions as to why we are getting nowhere on a Dominion scale," she said.

Constituencies in Ontario, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia have already been selected as the goals of the Social Credit party's national campaign, it was learned here.

Federal members of parliament for Alberta have each been assigned at least two constituencies in which to seek support for Social Credit theories—one each in Ontario and one each in the west.

Ontario constituencies will be visited by federal MP's when they go east for parliamentary sessions. Tours through the specially-assigned Saskatchewan and British Columbia constituencies will be arranged while the house of commons is not in session.

"ADOPT" A CONSTITUENCY

At least one constituency will be "adopted" by each Social Credit women's auxiliary group in Alberta.

Members of auxiliaries here will contact key women in each constituency and advise her in building up a strong women's organization to support campaigns arranged by visiting MP's.

Financial support by "adopting" auxiliaries will also be encouraged.

Plans for the women's part in the Canadian campaign were outlined by Mrs. Manning when she addressed the closing session of the women's auxiliary convention.

Convention delegates went on record as favoring the scheme, and were told details of the part in the drive would be completed at a meeting of the provincial executive of the auxiliary in January.

Socreds Open 2-Day Meet In South City

CALGARY, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Several hundred delegates began to register today for the two-day annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League.

The convention, coming on the heels of a one-day annual meeting of the women's auxiliary, already has more than a score of resolutions waiting action, forwarded from the young people's group and the women's auxiliary.

Registration and a welcome from Don Mackay, newly-elected mayor of Calgary took place in early session today. Resolutions will come before the convention in groups later today and tomorrow.

Panel discussions will be led today by Industries and Labor Minister J. L. Robinson on collective bargaining in labor-management negotiations and by Health Minister Dr. W. W. Cross on hospitalization.

Premier Manning likely will address the convention today instead of Friday as originally planned. The premier will leave tonight for Rosetown, Sask., to attend the funeral of his mother, who died there last night.

Mother Of Premier Dies

ROSETOWN, Sask, Nov. 24.—(BUP)—Funeral service will be held in the Presbyterian church here Friday at 2 p.m. for Mrs. George H. Manning, mother of Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta.

Mrs. Manning died in Rosetown hospital yesterday. She had been in hospital since suffering a stroke about a year ago.

The Rev. A. W. Currie will conduct the funeral service. Burial will be in the family plot at Rosetown cemetery.

In addition to the Alberta premier, Mrs. Manning is survived by her husband, who has farmed in the Glen Payne district of Saskatchewan for about 40 years; a son, Bill, an alderman and teacher in Saskatoon, and a son, Roy, who farms with his father.

Hymns and Little Cash As SCs Open Campaign

By Pat McVean
Bulletin Staff Reporter

CALGARY, Nov. 24.—Alberta Social Crediters today began probably the biggest crusade of their history with hymns and prayers on their lips and $108.56 in the kitty.

Meeting here today for the 15th annual Social Credit league convention, all their discussions point towards a highly-organized national campaign.

Doses of incentive and appeals for financial support are being dispensed under the convention slogan: "The door is open."

Singing of the hymn "God our help in ages past," popularized when the Social Credit party was first launched by William Aberhart nearly 20 years ago, marked the opening of this morning's session of the convention.

PRAYS FOR GUIDANCE

Rev. Peter Dawson, speaker of the Alberta house, prayed for Divine guidance of the convention's discussions.

R. D. Jorgenson, president of the league, urged the delegates to give financial and moral support to the party's campaign to "lead Canadians out of this chaotic mess."

Canadians, he explained, face a decision between two concepts of life—the sane way of living emphasized by Canadian Social Crediters or totalitarianism.

'TRAINED TO LEAD'

"Canada is looking to us today to show what can be done under proper administration," he said.

"We have been trained to take the lead—we have men and women dedicated to a way of life which will lead Canada out of this chaotic mess."

He warned that Social Crediters must be prepared to "dig down a little deeper" to pay for the men and women who will go about spreading Social Credit doctrines.

The Commons

Jean Francois Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) came out second best during an exchange with John Diefenbaker in the house. Pouliot became annoyed when some members during a debate on rules and procedure quoted precedents dating back to the 1700's. Said Pouliot: "Instead of referring to 'dusty' precedents, the members should use common sense." Mr. Diefenbaker then threw his punch: "I am sure that if my honorable friend shortly becomes a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, as some expect he will, he will not be talking about dusty precedents but will follow them."

JOHN DIEFENBAKER

Bootleg Whisky Is Easily Found

would have been just as easy to buy 20 bottles.

The whiskey which I bought at $5 a bottle is sold in government liquor stores for $1.90.

The $10 "quarts" can be purchased leggally for less than $4.

STARTED SEARCH

With $25 in my pocket I set out at 10:30 last night to buy as much illegal whiskey as possible.

My first attempt failed. I called a taxe, asking the driver to pick me up at a Jasper avenue restaurant.

When I got into his car I asked him if he knew where I could get a bottle, "I need a drink bad," I told him.

The driver said he was sorry, but he didn't know where I could get one.

I paid him 50 cents for the ride and stepped out on Jasper avenue again.

SECOND ATTEMPT

There was a taxi stand right across the street. I met a driver at the door and put the same question to him.

He told me he didn't have any liquor and suggested I wait for another driver, whom he named.

Before this man arrived, a young driver came into the taxi office. When I asked him if he could find me a bottle, he said, "Yes, come with me."

We drove to an apartment near 96 street where he picked up a $5 "mickey" for me.

By 12:30 a.m. I had managed to buy three more bottles in much the same manner.

WANT BIG SALES

The men weren't too happy about selling me 12-ounce bottles. They tried to convince me I needed at least 26 ounces.

One driver—he supplied me with the fourth bottle—talked freely of his business within a business.

He had to call on a "friend" to get my bottle. He said "the boys cleaned me out earlier tonight. All I've got in the car now is beer."

This driver told me "a lot of the fellows have quit carrying the stuff. It isn't worth the risk. If I get caught it will cost me about $300. Sometimes I don't make more than $50 or so in a month."

The driver said he and other bootleggers in Edmonton "work together."

He said, "If I run out I can get the stuff from one of the fellows who is finding business slow."

Although these men "screen" you with a pretty close look, there is at least one place that will sell the stuff over the phone.

I was able to get a bottle by merely dialing a number and asking them to deliver it to me in front of a Jasper avenue restaurant.

East Nabs 3 In City Theft

Three Calgary men are being held in Timmins, northern Ontario mining town, in connection with a $3,900 jewelry robbery here last week.

Timmins police are holding Allan McMillan, Steve Konopelay and Harold Schappell.

The three men, police believe, are connected with the robbery last Thursday of Carleton Bros. jewelry store, 10560-Whyte avenue. Nearly $4,000 worth of merchandise was stolen when thieves smashed the front door with a crowbar.

Inspector Bert Petheram of Edmonton police department said today warrants are being sent to Timmins for the arrest of the trio.

They will be charged with breaking and entering.

Arrest of the Calgary men followed the apprehension in Timmins of a youth, Bill Marcheldon, who was "trying to peddle" looted jewelry, said Inspector Petheram.

Ottawa Drive Social Credit Aim

Credit league appear to be solidly behind the on-to-Ottawa campaign.

Party members have exchanged their attitude of persecution and martyrdom of 15 years ago for one of chosen leadership, one Social Crediter said. Others verified his explanation:

"We must reach out to the people of Canada," said Mrs. Florence Olsen, retiring president of the women's auxiliary.

"Call it fate or whatever you like, but all this recent tremendous development of Alberta's natural resources seems like a sign that this province is to lead Canada in adopting a new economic system," R. D. Jorgenson, league president commented.

"Alberta's influence was never greater than it is now—it is the responsibility of our government and our citizens to see that this influence is thrown behind the crusade," said Premier Manning.

'Wisdom' by Manning Draws Banker's Praise

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The outlook for business activity is favorable, so far as Canada's internal situation is concerned, R. S. Waldie, chairman of the board of the Imperial Bank of Canada, said yesterday at the bank's annual meeting.

"We can never forget, however, the degree to which our economic well-being is dependent on our external trade," he said. "Almost the whole of our primary industry is very heavily dependent on outside markets. When we look abroad, we can see serious difficulties which may beset our path in the future.

"One of the most helpful developments in the past year and equally promising for the future has been the extension of oil discoveries in Alberta and other western provinces," he said.

"I should like to pay a tribute to Premier Manning of Alberta and his cabinet, for their wisdom and foresight in the provisions they have made for alloting oil-bearing and prospective oil-bearing properties, and for the care which they have exercised in protecting the public interest.

"In fact, I do not recall any better example in our history of the prudent and systematic management of public resources."

Northern Indian Tots Get Christmas Toys From City

Can you imagine a little girl in Canada who has never seen a doll?

Can you imagine the look on a little girl's face Christmas morning when she receives her first dolly—the first one she has ever seen?

This dream will come true for a group of Indian girls this Christmas at Great Slave Lake through the efforts of a group of Edmonton women.

The senior subdivision of the Edmonton Catholic Women's League yesterday dispatched a small "toy department" to the 53 boys and girls in the Indian school at Wabasca, on the shores of Great Slave Lake.

Last year the group sent a smaller shipment of toys to the school. They were the first toys ever received by the children.

The appreciation was so overwhelming, they have dispatched another larger shipment this year. Included this year are the first dolls which the girls will ever have seen.

Conveners are Mrs. A. McRae, 11030-129 street and Mrs. J. Lesburg, 10811-127 street.

FISHPOLE BANDIT HITS IN CITY AGAIN

A city man nearly captured the notorious fish-pole bandit last night but instead lost his pants and $36.

Latest theft was reported to police at noon by Alex Gregoraschuk of 10013-106 avenue.

He told police he awoke last night and saw his pants sliding by him hooked on the end of a long pole.

Before he could let out a scream the pants were out the window and the bandit on his way.

Investigation showed that the storm window had been removed and the inside window jimmied.

Two Whist Drives

King Edward Park community league will sponsor a whist drive and dance Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the club rooms, 80 avenue and 81 street.

A women's whist drive will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. by the King Edward Park community league.

Freak Mishap Hospitalizes City Woman

Freak accident involving four trucks yesterday sent a city woman to hospital.

She is Mrs. J. Coats of 10622-105 street, suffering undetermined injuries.

The accident occurred at 106 street and Jasper avenue.

A truck driven by George Mulek, 10404-113 street, drove into the end of a line of traffic, struck a truck ahead of him, causing the "accordion" collision of three vehicles ahead of him.

Mrs. Coats was a passenger in a truck driven by her husband. She was taken to University hospital by Jack Hayes ambulance.

Jim Porter, 9855-85 avenue, reported to police he had been assaulted by two men while sitting in his car in front of Queen's Hotel. He said a man came to the car and demanded his money.

Porter refused and was pulled out of his car and struck in the face and kicked in the ribs. While lying on the ground his pockets were searched. Later he discovered $10 missing.

He did not require hospital treatment.

Garneau Boy Wins Medal

A 14-year-old Garneau school student, David John Smith of 11146-85 avenue has been awarded the Governor General's bronze medal for highest standing in the last Grade IX departmental examinations.

Student Paper Back As Commission Setup

University of Alberta student's council last night appointed a three-man commission to supervise publication of the Gateway, the campus newspaper.

Publication of the paper was stopped this week when editor-in-chief Don Smith and managing editor Irene Bowerman resigned from their posts.

Last week five assistant editors also resigned.

At a meeting of the student's council last night three council members were appointed to supervise publication.

They are Ken Boyd, secretary, Ron Stevens, musical association representative, and Lois Badgley, nurses' representative.

Former editor's-in-chief and senior editors on the campus will be asked to co-operate.

Ex-editor Ron Smith said today he would consider returning to his post in view of the assistance to be provided in the re-organized staff.

Committee Okays War Housing Sale

Recommends Price of Lots Be Cut From $400 to $200

City council should comply with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation's request that it sell 600 wartime house lots at $200 each, instead of $400, finance committee decided last night.

The step would enable sale of 600 basementless wartime houses, built from 1945 to 1947 inclusive, at an average of $4,300.

Commissioners will be asked to discuss with CMHC a condition that if the houses are resold within a stated period, the city will receive the extra $200 per lot.

Despite Commissioner D. B. Menzies' statement that the city probably won't break even by getting the property onto the tax roll, most committee members felt it to the city's advantage to have the lots and houses paying full taxes as soon as possible.

Mr. Menzies said it will mean an average increase of $25 taxes per lot annually. Taxes are now $75 per lot under special city-subsidized agreement.

By letting the situation ride, the city within two years will be able to get $400 per lot and the extra $200 more than offsets the additional taxes, he said.

KEPT FOR VETERANS

Alderman Sid Bowcott felt that sale of the houses now will be an advantage to their occupants, because they can start applying present rent payments to purchase. Built originally for veterans, with definite concessions made by the city, the houses should not now be made available for sale to anyone, he said.

A four room house in project No. 4 would sell for $3,750, with $375 down and monthly payments of $28.78 including principal, interest, taxes and insurance. Present rent is $25.50.

A six-room house in project No. 4 would sell for $4,950, with $495 down and a monthly total payment of $35.64, against present rent of $33.50.

Sale price of a five-room house in project No. 5, will be $4,650, with a down payment of $465 and total monthly payments of $32.32, against present rent of $31.00.

A four-room house in project No. 7 would sell for $3,930, with a $395 down payment and monthly payments of $29.56. Present rent is $25.50.

Rank Discrimination

Politicians spend so much of their time currying favor with newspapers during election campaigns that when the chance comes to give the press a belt in the ear, after they are safe in office, they administer that belt with a certain sadistic glee.

Nothing else can explain the supercilious impatience with which the Honorable Douglas Abbott recently heard press protests against the discriminatory and wholly iniquitous eight per cent sales tax levelled against newsprint in Canada.

Mr. Abbott met a delegation of 40 from the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and manifested only the most hasty and superficial interest in their submission, maintaining, even before he heard their point of view, that this point of view was "wholly wrong."

The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, which represents 97 per cent of the dailies in Canada, raised no objection to the eight per cent sales tax in itself. The objection was based entirely upon the discriminatory nature of the imposition.

For the fact is that this tax is not imposed upon magazines or the alleged comic books.

Honest newspapers, performing an honest service to the public, pay more than $2,000,000 yearly in this tax.

At the same time, the salacious and violent publications which everybody admits are detrimental to youth, pay nothing at all.

Even the Toronto Star Weekly, invading local fields with a premature publication of comic pages, is exempt from this tax as a magazine while local newspapers, decently and whole-heartedly serving their communities, are forced to pay it.

Newspaper costs have advanced 95 per cent in respect to mechanical labor and 125 per cent in respect to newsprint in the past 10 years.

At no time in journalistic history has the business of disseminating news, essential to every intelligent citizen, been subjected to such financial pressure.

And yet the government, in face of these facts, continues to grab an eight per cent sales tax on newsprint and impose no tax at all on magazines and such iniquitous and useless things as comic books.

It is the rankest kind of discrimination, stupid, senseless and unjust.

Making Christmas Carols Stale

Christmas has few more delightful features than the ancient and lovely carols and seasonal music which have been associated with Yuletide for hundreds of years.

It is all the more pity, then, that certain radio stations make those carols and that music stale and tiresome by playing them over and over for more than a month before Christmas actually arrives.

If this practice of beating the gun on seasonal music is intended to forcibly implant the Christmas spirit in dull and laggard souls, it falls far short of its purpose because it only succeds in making people weary of the songs and carols before Christmas.

If the practice is intended to stimulate Christmas buying, it is, in a very real sense, sacrilegious.

If the practice derives from an impoverished library of more suitable music, it is indicative of bad management.

This unseasonable playing of Christmas music is in thoroughly bad taste and the more enlightened members of radio station staffs must know it.

Pioneers Whirl in Their Graves

The custom tailors of the United States have again selected what they consider to be the "ten best-dressed men in America."

And along with their awards they have gratuitously handed out a piece of advice for those men who wish to be considered "well-groomed."

This advice is that every man aspiring to sartorial perfection should carry along a vanity case containing a comb, mirror, deodorant, powder to conceal late-afternoon whiskers and a toothbrush."

Why a fan and a bottle of smelling salts have been omitted we fail to see.

This bag of male beauty aids may be highly practical. There may be nothing definitely wrong with a man setting up his mirror and having a go at his eyebrows after a good lunch.

But it seems odd that a nation which constantly pokes fun at the effete habits of Europeans should come out with a proposal of this nature.

It may be all right, mind you.

But behind this shrill advice we seem to hear a dull whirring noise.

And we think it is the bodies of the pioneers whirling, like dervishes, in their graves.

Edmonton Women Deserve Credit

The Local Council of Women meets tonight in Edmonton to discuss the new section 1054A added to the Criminal Code in which it is provided that a person convicted of certain sex crimes may be adjudged a "criminal sexual psychopath."

Whatever advances have been made in recent months in adjusting the law to the needs of the times in respect to sex offences, the women of Edmonton may take great credit for it.

The enlightened and scientific view that sex criminals, since they do not respond to ordinary punitive treatment, should be accorded special treatment and kept confined until their habits change, was pretty well originated among the women of this city.

At any rate, the Local Council of Women of Edmonton was among the very first to advance this view and to persevere with it until it became, as it is now, the accepted view all across Canada.

This view is based on certain acknowledged facts:

1—That ordinary penal methods have no effect on sex offenders.

2—That since the sex offender is the victim of an aberration that does not disappear of itself but becomes progressively worse, he should be locked up until it is safe for him to be at large.

These facts are so fundamental and so common sense and the implications of them are so obvious that the delay in translating them into law is inexplicable.

ODDS AND ENDS

By Harold L. Weir

Deeds of Semi-Darkness Committed in Half-Light

In a healthier period of American life, hoi polloi amused itself of an evening by sending sonny boy down to the corner saloon for a can of suds and consuming it over a game of euchre.

WEIR

The nobs strolled out to a beer garden where they sipped mild lager and listened to a German band.

Today, both hoi polloi and the nobs go to night clubs.

It is a sad decline in civilization.

There are night clubs almost everywhere, of course, and everywhere they are all just about the same.

But the night clubs of New York are the noisiest, the phoniest and the snobbiest of all night clubs anywhere.

If I were asked to do a sociological treatise on night clubs, which I am not, I should say that they are perhaps the lowest expression of a retrogressive way of life.

And I wouldn't base that condemnation on moral grounds necessarily. I would base it on an almost entire lack of entertainment value.

New York night clubs, may I report, are probably the most flat and boring institutions in what we jokingly refer to as civilization.

Celebrity Worship

The Stork Club and "Twenty-one" and the Morocco, which I visited briefly and spent a lost week-end in about three hours, are temples for the worship of celebrity.

The visiting yokels sit around at their cramped booths or tables, listen to atrocious music, witness mediocre floor performances and feast their popping eyes on moth-eaten movie stars, big-time gamblers and society debutantes who have as much expression on their painted faces as a Winnipeg goldeye deceased these past three weeks.

Everybody, of course, gets a little drunk, but not gracefully.

I once saw the late John Barrymore get frightfully plastered in a Vancouver club and it was an interesting experience because (a) his capacity for punishing liquor and remaining on his feet was a matter for biological astonishment and because (b) when he had silently and swiftly consumed nearly two quarts of Scotch, he made his way unsteadily through the crowd of gawping citizenry, turned in the doorway, braced himself with two hands, bowed deeply and said solemnly:

"It was nice meeting all you tramps."

Nothing happens like that in the Stork or Twenty-one.

The minor deities merely grimace and pose for the visiting firemen.

I would much sooner watch a good excavation on a downtown street. There is exactly the same suggestion of emptiness.

Lesser Joints

There is perhaps a little more color and liveliness in the lesser jernts of Manhattan.

For instance, one proprietor in Greenwich Village boasts a chorus of 80 girls.

The use of the word "girls" is probably a bit ill-advised.

The average age of the dainty 80 is such that they would be better employed, one thinks, in preparing to meet their Maker than in heaving a horsy hip in the direction of the bored customers.

And, strangely, no one seems to be very happy in these institutions.

Where the old beer gardens were places of laughter and music and song, the modern New York night club is a place where celebrities go wearily through the routine of exhibitionism and plain Joes glower into their cocktails and sneer at the celebrities for being what they are and at themselves for trying to be what they're not.

Lights Are Low

One common quality of every night club everywhere is a minimum of light. Night clubs flourish only in semi-darkness.

I think I know why.

Half-light is the only thing when you want to glamorize shady women, shabby decorations and shoddy celebrities.

Personally, I don't like half-light when I'm eating and drinking things, particularly things with raisins and currants in them.

Club Well Conducted

Editor, Bulletin—We the Edmon-Teens Club would like to make clear in the minds of the citizens of Edmonton, just who we are and what we are doing.

Lately there have been some slanderous remarks against us for the manner in which we are running our club and the behavior of the boys and girls who attend our functions. We know, and we wish you to know, that these remarks have been aimed against the wrong teen club, and the only way to straighten this matter out is by letting you know what our set-up in the Edmon-Teens Club is.

Our dances are held every two weeks, on Saturday night in the Garneau Highschool Gymnasium, under the careful supervision of the Y's mens club, from the YMCA, who are all prominent business men of the city. These men and their wives attend all our functions to act both as host and hostess and to see that the rules of the Edmon-Teens club are carried out by all the members. If anyone is found breaking any of these rules, his or her card is immediately taken away for a period of three weeks and if the breaking of these rules occurs more than three times, their membership in the club is revoked.

Our club is in no way connected with any other teen club in the city and we are in no way responsible for the method in which they run their activities or for what happens at their dances. We hope that you will take note of this and not be so quick to judge all the teen clubs by the behavior of a few which do not have the proper supervision.

The rules of our club are as follows:

Age limit 13 to 20.

No drinking and no person admitted if under alcoholic influences.

Smoking only in smoking room.

No gambling.

Service personnel admitted only when accompanied by a member.

Rowdiness such as mutilation of decorations, furniture or club properties etc. prohibited.

Club shall be responsible for any damage to building during club sessions.

'Loan', 'Lend'

Editor, Bulletin—I wonder why the use of the noun "loan" is substituted so frequently now for the verb "lend." The newspapers use "loan" for "lend" and even the loan companies use it in their advertisements.

A few years ago the word "route" was commonly pronounced like "rout" but I believe that has died out. Perhaps people will get back to "lending money" again instead of "loaning" it.

Ugly Sign

Editor, Bulletin—Your paper deserves credit for producing some very fine pictures. How would you like to see the subject of an artistic view completely spoiled by a hideous huge yellow sign board advertising a certain brand of cigarettes?

Take a look at the north end of the Low Level Bridge and you will find the city has allowed a monstrosity of a commercial sign, of no artistic value to be erected, blocking out the foliage completely that framed the beautiful windings of the river at this point.

Tell me where else, in the city can you find any beauty spots except along the banks of the river? What is there in Borden Park that you can call beautiful? Compare it with the Galt Gardens in the centre of the City of Lethbridge, Bowness, Central and East Parks in Calgary, or for that matter the very fine park in the city of Wetaskiwin.

Well for any sake let us preserve the only natural beauty spots we have, by getting that yellow sign board at the north end of the Low Level Bridge removed and placed along with others of that mercenary nature to be found up aways from the south end of the bridge.

Decimal System

Editor, Bulletin—It was recently reported in the press that some Laborite M.P. in England has had a pipe dream that Canada should be urged to adopt the sterling system of currency.

There is no doubt that everyone in this country would be ready to lynch anyone who tries to foist such a clumsy, out-moded and antiquated currency system upon the Canadian public.

Conversely, it is a puzzle to many thinking people why the U.K. does not scrap their present cumbersome monetary system and adopt the dollar as the unit of value, or even some other decimal system of currency.

From Today's News

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

The Russian government newspaper Izvestia makes a front-page splash with the surprising thesis that Socialism (Communism) and Capitalism can live side by side in peace—and it attributes the view to Lenin and Stalin.

The idea of compatibility between the two isms also has been put forward recently by other publications, including the Soviet magazine New Times. This is doubly interesting since both Lenin and Stalin have contradicted the idea of co-operation between Communism and Capitalism. For example Lenin in 1920 said:

"As long as Capitalism and Socialism exist, we cannot live in peace, in the end one or the other will triumph."

The world revolution for the spread of Communism also is in itself a direct contradiction of this theory of peace. So is the cold war.

Where then does this leave us? Must we discard the idea that peace between Communism and capitalism is utterly impossible?

I think not, but we shall have to qualify our thesis.

Communism and capitalism obviously cannot live in peace within the confines of any one country. They are oil and water and cannot mix.

However, there is widespread belief among students of the subject that a Communist state and a capitalist state could live side by side in peace—provided each minded its own business and didn't try to force its ism down the throat of the other.

If Moscow really believes what it is preaching about peace, why let her withdraw her fifth columns and call off the cold war. It's a fair bet she would get co-operation from the democracies.

Looking Backward

1889—60 Years Ago

L. P. Grass, farm instructor at Saddle Lake, arrived on Friday.

The session of the legislative assembly just closed has been the most important ever held in the North-West. As a result of the constitutional struggle waged in the closing days of the session, Dr. Brett is now without an advisory council and the whole matter will likely provoke many stormy scenes at the next meeting of the assembly.

1899—50 Years Ago

Serious news comes from the north-west section of Cape Colony. The whole border district between Colesburg and Burgersdorp has declared for the Boers.

Adelbert F. Hay has been appointed United States representative at Pretoria.

The British government says there is no need for alarm at the way things are going in the Boer war.

Uniformity Needed In Building Codes

What is the proper way to build a house, or a hall, or an apartment. Is it necessary to provide any standard type of foundation? Or will anything do, so long as it does not collapse before the building is finished?

Does it matter whether walls are protected from stove-pipes. How much paper can be used for portitions. Is it proper to soak shingles in oil? Is it necessary to provide exits in case of fire?

These seem silly questions. We have building codes and fire regulations and building inspectors. Each time some manufacturer produces some new type of building material he finds himself blocked by a dozen different regulations.

Each time you try your hand at construction you discover that you are breaking a whole list of prohibitions.

But have you ever tried comparing notes with other areas? If you do, you discover that there are about as many different regulations as there are communities. You find that the very thing which is a serious breach of regulations in one area is permitted in another area. You find that standards vary and inspections are different wherever you go.

Same Situation Holds Elsewhere

A recent report in 'Newsweek' outlines a similar situation in the United States. Another article in 'McLean's' points out that in almost every community there are buildings which are fire-traps.

You travel in a rural area and you discover that almost anything goes in the way of construction. Yet this situation exists in spite of so-called national building codes, and underwriter's regulations.

In Edmonton we have periodic reports on fire conditions which have not as yet been followed. The building trades constantly make recommendations which are usually ignored, apart from certain purely local rules that are sometimes more of a nuisance than anything else.

The moment anyone objects to our lack of standards in building and fire prevention they are met with the fact that we have regulations, thousands of them. But this does not alter the fact that building standards are in a frightful mess from one end of Canada to the other.

It is obvious that certain requirements in construction are basic. Scientific tests can easily establish other requirements for various types of buildings. As new products are developed, changes in construction methods are needed to utilize these new materials.

Regulations Confusing

Yet if you try to discover some day what is the right or wrong way to use a certain material or to construct a certain type of building, you simply become lost in a conflicting maze of regulations, exceptions and unfounded practices.

It should be practical to have these codes and regulations examined by experts to ascertain which are useful and which are objectionable. It also should be practical to consolidate all these conflicting rules into one national or, if you like, provincial code and then make that code apply to every portion of the area.

There is no reason why Calgary, for example should have different rules from Edmonton or Leduc or an isolated farm.

It is true that certain requirements are based upon the proximity of other buildings and upon the availability of water, but those are simply details of the regulations themselves. That does not alter the fact that a uniform building code should be used throughout a whole province.

If Necessary, No Exemptions

After all, if a regulation can be proven to be necessary, then it should be necessary throughout the whole area and no portion of that area should be exempt simply because the local authorities have not bothered with building or fire standards.

If, on scientific examination, a regulation is found to be unsound or unnecessary, then it should not be applied in any area regardless of what the local authorities might think.

The task of consolidating, testing and establishing adequate standards for construction and fire prevention may be a difficult one, but that is no reason why a beginning should not be made.

Once such a provincial or national standard was set as the specific requirements, then there would be no excuse for not complying. Construction materials could be manufactured to meet the requirements. Workers, no matter where they trained, would learn the proper methods and inspectors could demand uniform compliance.

If that were done, some of our fire-traps and slums would be removed and we would develop safer, healthier and sounder communities.

Warned By Traffic Mistakes Of Others

If somebody wanted to write a satire about my native city of Toronto, they might well call the place "Flat-town."

Incidentally, we had a more insulting name for Toronto in my boyhood days in Hamilton—but let that pass. For all I know, that name may still be a fighting word—and my intentions are entirely peaceable.

But Flat-town would still be a good name for Toronto—if only for the reason that almost all the main railroads still come in on the dead flat. And I mean "dead" flat.

They have just killed another two or three human beings at level railroad crossings in Toronto—but still nobody does very much about it.

Yet—twenty years ago—when we could not think of anything else to write about on the editorial page of the old Toronto Globe, we used to wax perennially indignant about level crossings.

They are still here. Toronto the Good is a lot bigger than it was even 20 years ago. Hence, there are more level crossings now within the densely-populated metropolitan areas. But nobody seems very excited about them. Toronto slays its own citizens—but still has plenty to slay.

Traffic Problem

At long last Toronto is doing something about its downtown traffic problem. They are now hard at work on the first section of a subway.

It reminds me once again that "the world do move." For the peculiar kind of subway they are building in Toronto was a "pet baby" scheme of the late T. Stewart Lyon, one-time editor of the old Toronto Globe. They are not tunnelling through the bowels of the earth, as they did in most great cities which now have underground railways. They are making what amounts to a huge open ditch. The tracks will be laid in this, and then the whole business will be covered over.

The stupidity of the human critter is an old subject. But when you begin to add up the cost of Toronto's past sloth, then when you figure that Edmonton is just as slothful, and that just about every city under the sun is also, you ask yourself: How dumb can we get?

Every great city knows that it has to have a rapid transit system sooner or later. This may take the form of an underground railroad, or an elevated railroad. Or it may take the form of lateral "highways"—roads built above the level of the ordinary street traffic. Or (like much of Hitler's highway system) it may take the form of a motorway depressed below the level of the street traffic.

But whatever form it takes, the longer the city waits, the more the unnecessary cost. For not only do the land values rise as the city grows, but the people of the city also lose the use of the convenience they might have enjoyed years earlier when the cost of construction would have been cheaper.

Others' Mistakes

Edmonton could save money by learning from Toronto's mistakes, just as Toronto could have saved many millions by learning from other cities' mistakes.

But will Edmonton?

Not very likely, brother, not very likely. For the main characteristic of the human critter is his dumbness, his orneryness, his downright mental laziness.

The human critter never yet did much that he was not compelled to do by the pressure of inescapable necessity—or the lure of rich spoils. Hence, the main reason I think we will get world government in this century is because the alternative is to blow the world literally to atoms. We take a lot of teaching—but we are beginning to see that point.

B.C. to Curb Hoodlumism

VANCOUVER, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Mayor Charles Thompson, Chief Constable Walter Mulligan and other civic officials met yesterday to discuss means of curbing juvenile hoodlumism in Vancouver.

They declined to disclose what moves will be made.

The meeting followed a new outbreak Tuesday night during which five knife-wielding "teen-agers" imprisoned 24 youths at an unsupervised club meeting.

"We're not through yet," the mayor said, adding that another meeting has been called for Monday.

Meanwhile, adult protection was promised for Junior Forest Warden meetings, one of which was the victim of last night's raid.

Five youths, wearing "zooty" clothes and brandishing springknives, walked into the schoolroom where the meeting was being held and told members to "shut up."

"Make one move and I'll slit your throat," one of them told Larry Davis, 15, when he asked them to leave.

Police are holding a 16-year-old boy in connection with the raid.

Blue Blooded Pooches Rate Big Business

The late Joe Penner—may his sinoidal simper rest in peace—made a career for himself in the theatre out of the question, "Anybody wanna buy a duck?" Today, with your indulgence, I'd like to make a column out of an equally pertinent question:

Anybody wanna buy a lhasa apso? A tahl-tan? A drentsche partrijshond or, maybe, a drathhaar . . . ?

These tongue twisters came into my life a few days ago, along about sunset, when I was sauntering up Sixth Avenue and spotted a dachshund romping and roughhousing in the window of a pet shop.

"That's for me," I said to myself. "He's built so Eleanor and I can pet him at the same time."

I walked in and asked the proprietress how much she wanted for the mutt.

"He'll cost you $250—and he's no mutt," said the bowsermonger.

"Isn't that a little steep?"

"It's very reasonable for a good dachshund. If you wanted a full-blooded Australian kelpie, you'd have to pay $500 and up."

PAPERS TO PROVE IT

"I don't get this full-blooded business," I said. "What have these pups got in their veins—ketchup or Pol Roger '26?"

"You don't understand," said the proprietress. "They're champions and have the papers to prove it."

Well, there was no one else in the shop, and so I asked the lady if she'd mind giving me a rundown on how champions are selected. What she told me is old stuff to Fido fanciers, but on the off-chance that you're no more kiyoodle-conscious than I was, here 'tis . . .

For one thing, including the tongue-twisters already mentioned, there are 111 recognized breeds in the dog world. And for another a purp isn't officially a purp unless it's registered with the American Kennel Club—the Burke's Peerage of poochdom.

During 1948, there were 239,495 new arrivals listed with the AKC, plus 65,905 official changes of ownership—and this is big business and no kidding, for quite a few of the registered Rovers sold for a thousand dollars or better.

2,444 DOG SHOWS

Last year, the local clubs around the country sponsored 2,444 dog shows, and you could easily elect a Congressman with the number of judges, handlers, tail-trimmers and ear-snippers involved in these yapfests.

To rate a "Ch." before its name, a dog must first win a blue ribbon in its own class. This entitles it to compete for "best of winners." If it wins that, it's given a certain number of points towards its championship, ,depending on the number of dogs it has beaten. Then, to be declared a champion, it has to win 15 points, getting them in at least three different shows under at least three different judges.

I asked the owner of the poochatorium to tell me something about the gentlemen who do the judging.

"There are more than 5,000 of them licensed by the AKC," she said. "The club has set certain standards to guide them, but the judges don't have to pay any attention to them unless they want to,, and their say-so is final. Consequently in selecting a 'best of winners,' a judge may pick a certain setter over a certain cocker one day, and a week later reverse himself at another show

"The tendency, however, is to go along with the opinion of the previous judge, and this sometimes results in strange selections. For instance, a couple of years ago a highly-touted European expert attended a show and was amused by the higgledy-piggledy appearance of a fox terrier whose owner had somehow amanaged to get him past the entry committee. As a gag, he asked the handler if the dog was for sale.

"One of the judges overheard him and, not knowing that the European was joking, awarded a blue ribbon to the stumblebum pooch. And at subsequent shows, other judges went along with this decision until the animal had piled up enought points to win a championship.

Today, old Higgledy-Piggledy 's a big name in the dog business and worth more than a thousand dollars."

"It's a lot like show business," I said to the lady. "I know several Broadway and Hollywood champs who have gotten into the thousand-dollar class by a very similar process."

Planes Collide, Killing Three

LONDON, Nov. 24—(UP)—Three persons were killed today when a Royal Air Force Meteor jet fighter and a private plane collided in flight and crashed.

The victims were an RAF pilot, sole occupant of the jet fighter, and the two occupants of the private craft. The planes struck each other over Kimberley, Nottinghamshire, in Central England.

Jennifer Jones Is Star at Capitol

Featured in Madame Bovary Opening Run Tomorrow

Regarded by MGM as one of the greatest motion pictures it has filmed this year, Madame Bovary makes its appearance at Edmonton's Capitol theatre tomorrow.

The motion picture is the tragic story of Emma Roualt, later to become Madame Bovary who is endowed from birth with an ardent temperament and great beauty.

Unfortunately she has to spend the formative years of her life in a convent school and has to find the romance her nature craves in smuggled novels and in dreams based upon them. At 17 she exchanges the dull life of the school for the equally dull life of her father's poor farm.

Then when hopes of finding romance seem most futile, pleasant young Doctor Bovary appears on the scene and they are married.

The tangled skein of her life which follows presents a high challenge to Gustave Flaubert who finds himself forced to defend her in a French court of law.

Only by convincing the court that she was as much sinned against by society as guilty of the sins with which she was charged is he able to win acquittal.

JENNIFER JONES STARS

Leading role of Madame Bovary is played by Hollywood actress Jennifer Jones who learned her acting in her father's stock company and furthered her career with Broadway stage and radio work.

Role of Charles Bovary is played by Van Heflin who is also an Academy Award winner. Swedish actor Christopher Kent plays the part of Leon Dupuis and James Mason the part of Gustave Flaubert.

More than two years were spent in intensive research into the modes and manners of nineteenth century France before MGM put Madame Bovary on film.

Thirty-five elaborate sets were constructed for the action, ranging from spacious village squares to the dusty mysteries of an apothecary's shop of the time and glitter of the Rouen Opera House.

Picture was directed by Vincente Minnelli and was produced by Pandro S. Berman. Adaptation of the Flaubert novel for the screen was by Robert Ardrey.

Russia Keeps UN Payment Low

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—A government spokesman cracked out at Russia yesterday for boasting of her progress and at the same time failing to pay a fair share of the budget of the United Nations.

A. D. P. Heeney, undersecretary of state for external affairs, told a Commons committee Russia pays 6.34 per cent of the budget as compared to 3.20 paid by Canada, 39.79 by the United States and 11.37 by the United Kingdom.

Fine Rescinded Against Russians

WASHINGTON, Nov 24—(AP)—Amtorg, the Russian trading agency, was fined $10,000 yesterday for failing to register as a foreign agent but the fine was suspended. The government dropped indictments against six top officials of the agency, also charged with failure to register.

Higher Federal Share Of Road Costs Asked

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—At least three provinces have criticized the federal government's proposed agreement covering construction of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Governments of Quebec, Alberta and New Brunswick have requested changes in the agreement which Reconstruction Minister Winters sent out two months ago.

Their views were contained in additional Trans-Canada Highway correspondence tabled yesterday in the commons. This correspondence showed no replies from other provinces concerning the agreements. Correspondence with four other provinces—Newfoundland, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Prince Edward Island—merely gave approval to table the exchange of letters previously made public.

VIEWS UNKNOWN

Replying to Percy Black (PC, Cumberland) and Howard Green (PC), Vancouver-Quadra), Mr. Winters said he has written to the highways ministers of Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia asking if highway correspondence exchanged with them could be tabled.

In the correspondence tabled today, Alberta suggested the proposed federal contribution—50 per cent of cost—should be increased to 66 2-3 per cent.

"A Trans-Canada highway of satisfactory standards and worthy of the name should have at least two-thirds of its construction costs borne by the federal government," wrote D. A. Ure, acting minister of public works for Alberta. His reply was dated Sept. 27.

STAR-STUDDED CAST play magnificent roles in MGM's "Madame Bovary," film version of famed Gustave Flaubert novel. Heading list are Jennifer Jones, James Mason and Van Heflin in tragic tale of ruin of a beautiful woman's life, starting tomorrow at Capitol theatre.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—Fed up with playing a pollyanna on the screen, Teresa Wright is seeking a return to the stage. "I don't particularly want to play bad women," she remarked on 'the men" set. "But I would like to play a girl who has a few problems and doesn't always know how to solve them.

"I would like to work with a stock company for a few seasons, then try a play in New York. I don't feel up to facing Broadway now; it has been eight years since I was on the stage."

Teresa said her role in "The Capture" has more "spunk" than she is usually allowed. No wonder—it was written and produced by her husband, Niven Busch, who agrees with her views. She found working with him was "stimulating."

"We had our disagreements during the picture," she said, "but we worked them out. It brought us closer by giving us more in common."

Sterying Hayden is delighted with his hoodlum role in "Asphalt Jungle." "Those panty-waist roles I had before weren't acting," he admits. If he proves himself in the part he will land an MGM contract.

Sterying is a different man since his wartime and postwar days when he sneered at Hollywood "Everybody has to grow up some day," he admitted.

Another milestone on the road to realism: The call sheet on "A Place In The Sun" asked for "20 factory girls—not too pretty."

Winnipeg's Deana Durbin tells me she dined recently with her first husband, Vaughn Paul. He dropped from sight after he and the songbird divorced and has been ailing.

A juvenile actor in his first screen role watched Robert Walker fluff a few lines in "The Skipper Surprised His Wife." Before the kid was hustled off to the classroom, he said to Bob, "maybe you'd better come back to school with us."

Northern Posts Get 2 Doctors

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The health department today announced the appointment of two doctors and two nurses to posts in the Northwest Territories and Eastern Arctic.

Dr. A. R. Greenidge of Montreal will go to Fort Resolution, 515 miles north of Edmonton, and Dr. W. E. P. Corbett of London, Eng., will go to Chesterfield Inlet, 325 miles north of Churchill, Man.

Mildred E. Steele of Beechy, Sask., will go to Lake Harbor on Baffin Island and Mrs. Margaret Emond of Toronto to Fort Chimo on Ungava Bay.

'Carmen' Said Delight To Both Eyes, Ears

Civic Opera Society's production of the opera "Carmen" had a successful opening last night.

The show plays through until Saturday in the Strand Theatre, and there's a matinee performance Saturday afternoon.

With Carmen, Mrs. J. B. Carmichael and the Society executive again have taken some 60 local singers and whipped up a mighty fine show that's a credit to the city.

There were some really sparkling moments in the opening night performance.

Heroine of the opera, Noreen Bristow, as the fiery Carmen turned in a highly commendable evening's work, vocally and dramatically. Her mezzo soprano voice carried the heavy part well. Her acting, though generally good, wasn't forceful enough at times for a hot-blooded Gypsy girl.

VERY GOOD ACTING

American tenor Clifford Newdall was extremely good. His years of experience on U.S. stages were obvious in his singing, which, unfortunately was a little strained at times, and in his convincing, uninhibited acting.

Wide-eyed Sherrill Lanyon as the innocent peasant girl, Micaela, was a delight.

The petite soprano gets better all the time, and last night she gave a first class performance.

Tall, hawk-nosed Boris John Melnyk, made an admirable toreador.

Other particularly good spots in the opera included the chorus numbers, which were often near-exceptional, and congratulations are in order to chorus director Imelda Pepin-Olsen.—R.W.S.

Lilienthal Quits As Atom Chief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(UP)—David E. Lilienthal is giving up his job as boss of the $4,500,000,000 Atomic Energy Commission for the privilege of saying what he thinks about issues of the atomic age.

The 50-year-old AEC chairman submitted his resignation to President Truman, effective Dec. 31.

The president reluctantly accepted it yesterday with the understanding that 'Lilienthal would stay on a while longer "should the exigencies of the public interest demand."

Envoy To China To Remain Silent

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The government declined yesterday to allow T. C. Davis, Canadian ambassador to China, to appear before the commons committee on external affairs.

External affairs Minister Pearson told the committee last week he had no objection to Mr. Davis appearing but he pointed out the possibility of difficulties arising if the envoy returned to China after making public statements here. Mr. Davis is home for consultations on the Chinese Communists' request for recognition.

Talk Redistribution

Alberta legislative re-distribution committee under chairmanship of Hon. Lucien Maynard is meeting in Calgary today. Later it will hold a session in Didsbury.

Palestine Puzzle Before UN Today

Opposing Peace Plans Will Come to Ballot

By Bruce W. Munn
United Press Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 24.—(UP)—United Nations delegates, taking no heed of the Thanksgiving Day holiday, today were scheduled to begin a new debate on the perennial problm of Palestine.

JUST THE THING for keyhole kibitzing is red satin, visored evening cap with elongated peephole. Parisian designer Schiaparelli, in surrealistic mood, turned out fantastic topper, complete with weird, diamond-clip eyebrow.

While the general assembly debates administrative and budgetary matters, its special political committee will discuss the only major matters outstanding two years after the UN promulgated the partition plan that ended the Palestine war. These were:

1. The internationalization of Jerusalem.

2. Protection of the holy places of three faiths.

3. The problem of an estimated 751,000 Arab refugees from the Holy Land war.

The assembly's main political committee was scheduled to vote on opposing "peace plans" sponsored by Russia, on one hand, and Britain and the United States on the other.

The Soviet "peace" resolution, sponsored by Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, opens with a condemnation of Britain and the United States as warmongers, sets forth an appeal for adoption of Russia's atomic control plan, and concludes with an invitation to all five of the big powers to join in a treaty "for the strengthening of peace."

The U.S. and Britain offered a 12-point resolution which reaffirms the principles of the UN charter.

The 59-nation political committee was expected to vote down the Russian measure despite Vishinsky's best oratorical efforts. The Soviet foreign minister spoke for 90 minutes at Flushing Meadows on the atomic issue yesterday, then motored here to make another hour's speech. Unfinished at adjournment time, he then asked permission to conclude his remarks today.

The Palestine debate was expected to consume several days.

Observers anticipated bitter debate on the internationalization issue Israel and several Arab states have come out in strong opposition to surrendering Jerusalem to an international mandate.

There was general willingness, however, to give the holy places of Jerusalem over to UN protection.

GRASS ORPHAN

Prince Charles Takes It Out On Saucepan

LONDON, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Prince Charles, a "grass orphan," was reported today to be consoling himself by raising a great din with a beat-up saucepan and a wooden spoon.

His mother, Princess Elizabeth, is off on a visit to his father, Prince Philip, who is stationed at Malta with the Mediterranean fleet.

That leaves Charles and the servants in sole possession of Clarence House, London home of Elizabeth and Philip.

Attendants say she turned to the saucepan and spoon—old favorites of his—when the novety of his birthday presents wore thin. He was a year old Nov. 14.

He also is practising his pronunciation of "mum mum" and "pa pa."

Scientists Sail For Two-Year Antarctic Survey

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The 700-ton Norwegian sealing ship Norsel set off last night for the Antarctic with 14 scientists who plan to spend two years on icy Queen Maud Land.

The scientists hope to solve the riddle of a snow-free area which is reported to exist on Antarctica, collect weather data, survey unchartered areas and measure the thickness of the ancient glaciers. They intend to stay until April, 1952.

A member of the expedition, sponsored by scientific organizations and governments of Britain, Sweden and Norway, is Dr. Ernest Roots, 26-year-old senior geologist of the group. Roots, a native of Salmon Arm, B.C., is a graduate of the University of British Columbia.

Fire Threatens Ancient Church

JERUSALEM, Nov. 24.—(UP)—A fire today threatened one of Christendom's holiest shrines, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem.

The fire broke out just before midnight, in the Cupola of the ancient church built over Christ's tomb. It was still burning this afternoon, although it was reported under control this morning.

3 Tots Assigned To Foster Homes

VANCOUVER, B.C. Nov. 24—(BUP)—Three young Vancouver children, found cold, hungry and barricaded in their home, will be placed in foster homes temporarily.

The boy, 2, his sisters, 3 and 5, were found weeping and hungry Saturday. The girls were bound to a bed. "To keep them out of mischief", their father said.

QUIET SUBURBAN Oakville isn't so peaceful this week as Calgary's rollicking Stampeder football team works out prior to Saturday's Grey Cup final against Montreal Alouettes at Toronto. Decked out in cowboy finery, Stampeders are seen on arrival at Oakville. Coach Les Lear has arms about towering pass-catching ends, Sugarfoot Anderson and Woody Strode.

Hanson Rates Marquardt With West Grid Greats

Big 'Bud' Marquardt, currently of the Eskimos football executive, made the grade when Fritz Hanson came up with a new slant on mythical line-ups in Calgary one day this month by picking 'his' all-time, all star team in the west.

BUD MARQUARDT
. . . Pigskin Elite.

Hanson, former Winnipeg scatback, who used to carry the ball a 'fu. piece,' as they say in Georgia, figures the following to be the best, tackle for tackle, ever to step onto a western Canadian gridiron:

MARQUARDT, STRODE ENDS

Ends Bud Marquardt (Winnipeg Blue Bombers) and Woody Strode (Calgary Stampeders); tackles, Martin Gainor (Winnipeg) and Johnny Aguirre (Calgary); guards, Riley Matheson (Calgary) and Bert Oja (Winnipeg); centre, Dean Griffing (Regina Roughriders).

Quarterback, Keith Spaith (Calgary); halfbacks, Art Stevenson (Winnipeg), Ralph Pierce (Regina), Bob Fritz (Winnipeg and Edmonton Eskimos), and Greg Kabat (Winnipeg).

Fleet Fritzie rates Les (I haven't seen any pictures of the Montreal-Hamilton game) Lear as the all-time Western Conference coach.

Hanson's selections indicate the ups and downs of various teams in the union. For example, no one on the Winnipeg outfit, which passes for a football team these times, merited mention.

But no less than six who 'showed' with the Bombers of 10 years ago made the grade.

BY-PASS PRE-WAR STAMPS

Conversely, none of Calgary's pre-war players was named, but five (counting Lear) of the present Stampeders are considered to be of all-time calibre.

And only these five, of Hanson's 'selects' are still active in the football business.

Hanson played with, or against, all of the 13, with the exception of Riley Matheson. But Matheson, sometimes referred to as the best American import to come into the conference this year, is one of the most vicious tacklers and effective line-backers this league ever saw, according to Fritz.

Hanson's choices are good. So good, in fact, that most people would make only one change.

They'd put Hanson in the backfield'.

Flying Eagles Hoop Winners

MacKinnon's Eagles scored their third straight win downing YMCA Jacks 38-32 in a Junior Basketball League game played at St. Anthony's gym last night. Jeff Barnes led the Eagles, scoring 10 points.

Score was tied 12-12 at the end of the first quarter, but after that MacKinnon's were never headed. Half time score was 18-14.

Jacks' Lloyd Konashewsky scored 13 points to be high man for the night. Besides Barnes, other high scorers were Tiny Halberg (Jacks) with 8 and Norval Robson (Eagles) with 6. Every Eagle hit the score sheet to contribute to their win.

LINEUPS

MacKinnon's Eagles — Cooper 2, Barnes 10, Fraser 5, Chebry 2, Leah 4, Pearson 5, McNabb 4, Robson 6. Total 38.

Y.M.C.A. Jacks—Sandstrom 4, Rutherford 3, Halberg 8, Saddy 4, Konashewsky 13, Moore, Park, Swanson, Finken, Pope. Total 32.

Referees—Grant DeFraine and Hilaire Dureau.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 24—(CP)—Hull Volants last night skated to their third straight victory on Stockholm ice, defeating the Hammarby club 4-2 in an exhibition hockey game.

Decries 'Anti-Stukus' Chatter

In his first formal statement since Monday night's Edmonton Eskimo football meeting, team manager Al Anderson yesterday deprecated "the amount of publicity given to the so-called 'anti-Stukus' faction among team officials".

Anderson went on to confirm that Angelo Bertelli, former Notre Dame great, was among those suggested as likely candidates for the coaching post.

Regarding the possible resignation of certain executive members, including finance chairman Bob Bradburn, Anderson said:

"These men have been most invaluable to us, and if we lose Bradburn the club will suffer. As an executive he is of a calibre hard to replace."

Anderson concluded his statement with the remark that Stukus actually hasn't been formally selected as coach for next year. The likeable Lithuanian has, in effect, been offered the job but as yet hasn't talked terms with the officials.

Stukus' present contract with Eskimos expires December 15.

Plan Face-Lift Olympic Group

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Delegates arrived here last night for the start of the three-day annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. One of the main points to be discussed is believed to be re-organization of the Canadian Olympic Association but details are unavailable.

Wins in Third

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Billy Pinkus, Winnipeg, Manitoba middle weight boxing champion and Canadian representative to the British Empire Games, last night scored a third-round technical knockout over Morris O'Brien of Sudbury.

BULLET VICTIM ED WAITKUS STARTS EARLY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24—(BUP)—Philadelphia Phillies revealed yesterady that Eddie Waitkus—recuperating in Clearwater, Florida, from a bullet wound — will start special exercises aimed at putting him in shape for the coming major league baseball season.

Phillies said that trainer Frank Weichec will leave for Clearwater on Monday to organize a set of exercises for Waitkus. Weichec said he hopes to have the first baseman in trim by March 1, when the Phils are scheduled to arrive at Clearwater for spring training.

Waitkus was shot in the chest by a crazed girl fan in Chicago last June.

Meldrum Paces Monarchs' Win

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24—(AP)—Los Angeles Monarchs last night won their third straight Pacific Coast Hockey league victory 4-2, from San Francisco Shamrocks.

Shamrocks had lost only four starts so far this season, but Monarchs, reinforced by five newcomers, proved effective tonight.

Jack Meldrum, Edmonton product, scored one of the Monarch goals and assisted with two others. The Shamrock goals were scored by Walt Samanski and Larry Silvestri.

SPORT BRIEFS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24—Veteran Pittsburgh pitcher "Rip" Sewell has been named manager of Pirates' Charleston, South Carolina, farm club. Sewell was released by Pirates last season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 — Former featherweight champion Sandy Saddler of New York has signed for three January bouts in Caracas, Venezuela. Saddler and his manager, Charlie Johnston, leave for Venezuela early in January for the 10-rounders on the 14th, 21st and 28th of January. Saddler's opponents will be named later.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, Nov. 24—(AP)—The 1951 Walker Cup matches involving best amateur golfers of the United States and Britain, will be played at Birkdale, Lancashire, England, June 8-9.

PRAGUE, Nov. 24—(AP)—Soviet Russia's athletes are embarked on a campaign to break all world records in every branch of sport within the next few years and they're going to achieve it, Rude Pravo, organ of the Czech Communist party, declared yesterday.

The world records claimed were six in track, 10 in weight lifting, eight in shooting and several in speed skating. No details were given.

QUICK WATSON, THE CAMERA

Bare 'Horrible' Details Stamps' Picture Plot

By W. R. Wheatley

MONTREAL, Nov. 24—(CP)—A sharp piece of unscrupulousness involving unauthorized use of a nationally-known firm's name, provided Calgary Stampeders with a complete motion picture of the first Ottawa-Montreal Big Four playoff game, Canadian Press learned authoritatively yesterday.

Informant said the Associated Screen News unknowingly became a dupe in the under-cover skullduggery.

Calgary coup was carried out by a man now living in Montreal who is a former director of Stampeders. His name was not revealed to the Canadian Press.

Coup developed in this manner:

The ex-Calgarian asked the Associated Screen News to make a complete film of the game, played in Montreal Nov. 16. The film company officials said they would have to get permission of the Alouette club and tell the club who wanted the film.

The ex-Calgarian replied, "Tell them it's for the news reels." Film officials were a bit jolted; they're in that business themselves. Ex-Calgarian then told them the film was actually for the nationally-known company; he gave its name.

Film people reported the request to Hayman, who, unsuspecting, gave his consent but asked that a copy of the film be made for the Alouette club.

Then the engineer of the plot started to worry.

So the ex-Calgarian took a chance and called his acquaintance, the vice-president of the company. After a lot of double-talk he admitted frankly that the picture was for the Stampeders.

The vice-president, long associated with Big Four football as coach and as a supporter, promptly called Hayman. Then he went further. A check was made at the film offices. The working order paper there showed the order to take the picture ostensibly had come from the vice-president's company.

JUNIOR TEAMS IN GARDENS' TWIN-BILL

Another junior hockey double-header is on tap tonight at the Gardens. First game, Maple Leafs and Canadians, will decide an inhabitant for the cellar while the second game will mean leadership of the newly opened league.

EAC will play host to Wetaskiwin, latter presently atop the heap. The Clubmen are in second place, one point behind the Wetaskiwin club.

Dumped 4-1 by Regina For 2nd Straight Loss

REGINA, Nov. 24—(CP)—Third-place Regina Capitals last night defeated leading Calgary Stampeders, 4-1, in a Western Canada Hockey league game here.

Rangy Bob Wiest, 27-year-old centre from the Pacific Coast league, led the Cap upset with a two-goal performance.

Wiest, who also played in the American league, came to Caps three games back, and has since picked up five goals and three assists.

It was the second straight loss for Calgary, following their 5-2 setback in Saskatoon Tuesday.

Ab McDougall and Gordie Staseson clicked once apiece for the other Regina goals. Centre Bill Kyle collected three assists, and McDougall got one.

CAIRNS COUNTED

Doug Cairns scored Calgary's only goal.

Caps stormed Russ Dertell's citadel from the opening whistle. Harold Brayshaw and Lou Hauck fired at him, and Wiest came up to score the opener at 1:46. A few minutes later Hauck went off for the rest of the game with an injury.

Archie Wilder took Dunc Grant's pass and set up Cairns for the lone Stamp marker, also in the opening period.

With the score deadlocked at the start of the second, both teams opened up wide. The scoreboard went empty, but the penalty box was full.

Brayshaw took the first trip for boarding and the goal-hungry Stamps peppered Barefoot from all angles. Caps' Staseson and Stamps' Scott tangled and drew majors.

Wilder followed for high-sticking Brayshaw, whose lip was cut.

COULDN'T SCORE

Stamps bottled up the Regina crew in their own territory for most of the period but were unable to score.

With the score still 1-1 Caps got away to a driving start in the third. McDougall took Kyle's pass at the 50-second mark to beat Dertell.

After three more ineffective attacks, Wiest, McDougall and Kyle combined in a three-way play that produced Wiest's second score of the night.

From there on the Caps rolled toward the end of the game. Staseson picked up the final marker four minutes before the whistle.

Regina's Dick Kotanen suffered a leg injury and was off for the third and part of the second periods. Calgary's Bunny Dame came out of a clash with possible fractured ribs. Hauck's injury came from a stick in the eye, and was described after the game as "not serious."

HILLTOPS OVERWHELM JUNIOR GRID CHAMPS

SASKATOON, Nov. 24 — (BUP) — Hamilton Wildcats, dominion junior football champions, yesterday suffered their first loss of the season as they fell 16-2 to Saskatoon Hilltops in an exhibition game here.

Wildcats won their dominion crown Saturday, defeating Vancouver Blue Bombers 14-11 in Vancouver, after Bombers had eliminated Hilltops in the Western final.

Hilltops' lopsided victory before 4,000 shivering fans gave them some revenge for last year's loss to Wildcats in the dominion final. Game yesterday was played on a snow-packed field with the temperature hovering around 20 degrees.

Saskatoon club struck fast in the first quarter, quarterback Frank Szombathy going over for a major, and they were on their way.

Local Ski Front Starts Take Shape

A knock'em down, drag'em out discussion on the Recreation Commission's annual ski campaign was staged when local ski clubs met last night.

Outcome was that all representatives were instructed to hold meetings at their respective clubs, to pick up new ideas and relate the ideas already suggested. Then in the near future another meeting is to be held to outline final plans.

The newly formed Timberline Ski Club held a meeting last Thursday at Betty Thomson's in the Highlands. There were forty odd members at the gathering, where a film, "Song Of Ski," was shown. Plans for the coming season discussed.

Next meeting will be held tonight at the home of Barney Graham, president of the Timberlines, at 9530-102A Ave. As usual films will be shown, and all persons interested are cordially invited. If you can't make it tonight give Barney a call and let him know you're interested. Remember the more members in any organization means more fun and a better club . . .

Don't forget the Eskimo Ski Club annual dance, to be held at Club Anton, Friday December 2. Tickets are available from any member of the club . . . Bill Evans, president of the Eskimos, announced that they have acquired a new hill just opposite White Mud. "It was cleared last fall and should be the best hill in Edmonton," Bill said last night . . . He also stated the Eskimos want new members. So if you're interested contact him at 82128 in the evening.

Harvey Clifford, Olympic skier, now instructor at the Norquay Ski Club in Banff, is also interested in Edmonton's skiers. Harvey wrote Jack Reilly at the Recreation Commission to inquire if any local skiing enthusiasts would be interested in taking an instructors course at Banff this winter.

Don't give up the ship skiers, we can smell snow in the air. Old Man Winter can't sleep forever. Why not take this opportunity to strengthen those ankles of yours? It will pay off when you get out on the hills for the first few times. For instance, bob up and down on your toes for a few minutes every morning. A few leg exercises wouldn't hurt either. (GIBB)

You Get Hot Seat At Ice Bowl

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 24.—(AP)—They may be playing football in the Ice Bowl game here Jan. 2 in frigid temperatures, but the customers can get the hot seat.

At least, that's the plan of Ladd Air Force base officers.

They're going to install aircraft heaters under the bleachers, with canvas ducts carrying heat the entire length of the stands.

University of Alaska will clash with an Air Force eleven in the Bowl game.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(UP)—Bob Murphy, 175, San Diego, stopped Jim O'Dowd, 193, Ponca City, Okla., (1).

Coach Currie Works Flyers

Flyers held a light workout at the Gardens last night in preparation for their Friday meeting with Stampeders in Calgary.

After the practice, coach Frank Currie, commenting on the league, said that it will be a toss-up as to the final standings of the four teams. At present only eight points separate the top and bottom teams.

Bernie Bathgate and Eddie Cutts both worked out, but neither will see action Friday. Bathgate's ankle is good but he is a little shy on condition. Currie will ice the same team that played to a 5-5 tie with the Stamps at the Gardens last Saturday.

The teams return to the Gardens Saturday for a tussle on the Flyers' freeze.

Reds Toss Bookies Out

PRAGUE, Nov. 24—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist-controlled government moved yesterday to liquidate another private enterprise—the race bookies.

A prominent Prague bookie disclosed he and his colleagues had received notice their licenses will not be extended and that they will be put out of business by the end of the year.

Bill Lea, Yorkton, Sask.: "There's quite an argument down this way as to the age of Elmer Kreller of Edmonton Flyers. Will you get information for me?"

Comment: The onetime 'Shadow' was 29 last June and that's his real, rather than 'hockey age', unless he was kidding the Canadian Shamateur Hockey Association when he played junior hereabouts in the 1930-40 season.

Attention 'Stop Me If I'm Wrong': Everything you suggest about the 'Pug' Young-'Squee' Allen incident may be true; that we would not have "praised" the incident so highly had Vic Myles, for instance, flattened Kilburn, Merluk or Anderson to "the freeze;" that it was just a case of bully Young laying the beef into one of the smallest players in the league; and as you suggest the 'S' in my name may stand for "S——."

All this may be true. At the same time I'll bet that villain Young would have enough moxy to sign his name to a letter, which is more than you appear to have.

Stamps' Workouts Fail Worry Hayman

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The Grey cup final, already productive of the jitters and ticket twitches among a lot of people, is "just another football game" to coach Lew Hayman's Alouettes.

While the squad worked out at the Royals' baseball stadium yesterday, lineups of fans moved into the offices to pick up prized tickets for which they had made application.

About 3,000 fans filed past the ticket windows throughout the day. Many got none. Tickets were sold only to season subscribers who had made application.

Hayman couldn't see any reason why his boys should work themselves into a pre-game lather.

"Of course we want a winner," he said. "Every man is working at his best now and wants to be on a Grey cup championship team.

"They all know it will be a tough game against Calgary Saturday. But they feel they're capable of doing the job of winning.

"The team spirit is high but the boys are taking everything calmly in stride. We don't have to get all steamed up. We have come through tough games before."

What did Hayman think of the rugged training and two-a-day workouts Stampeders have been putting on at Oakville?

"Oh, the western teams do all that every year when they come east," said Hayman, in a voice indicating he didn't give a hoot if the Calgarians worked out seven times a day.

"They always go into strictest training in seclusion, living together, eating together. In the thirties Winnipeg Blue Bombers went to Ann Arbor, Mich.

"We're doing all right quietly in our own park."

MICHIGAN matron lost women's world record catch because of troublesome toothache which took her away from rod. Mrs. George A. Bass' husband reeled big one 64½-pound sailfish in while she was taking a rest aboard a boat off Palm Beach.

Crighton Named Grey Cup Ref

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—Hec Crighton of Toronto will referee Saturday's East-West football game between Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders.

This was announced today by Percy Robinson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union. Of the five officials he announced, four are from Eastern Canada and one from the west.

Besides Crighton, they are: Umpire, Seymour Wilson, Hamilton; judge of play, Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton; head linesman, Andy Beiber, Winnipeg; down boxman, Bob Lye, Hamilton.

The kick-off is at 1:45 p.m. EDT.

Calls Junior Grid Confab

Jack Reilly, director of Junior Football League requests all directors and team managers attend an important meeting in the Recreation building, Monday, November 28, 5:45 p.m.

Amateur golfers of Britain and the United States will play the 1951 Walker Cup matches near Southport, England, on June 8-9. The 1951 British Open championship will be played at Antrim, Ireland, starting July 2.

Carriers 'Cut Up' At Bulletin Party

Was it a Grey Cup Special?

No, but it was just as noisy last night at the Recreation Commission Hall, when the annual Bulletin carriers' sports carnival and jamboree was held.

With peanuts flying, pop and hot dogs being enjoyed by everyone, this event for the carrier boys and their parents was a howling success.

At this shindig everybody wins. Yes everybody, for as the boys came in the door they drew a card out of the treasure chest box and all won either a flashlight, hockey stick, theatre tickets or other numerous articles. Then the three hundred and more parents and boys sat down to big show with free refreshments.

Tommy Kennedy, of the Bulletin, handled the MC chores throughout the evening.

Musical entertainment was supplied by guitarist Dick Taylor and accordionist Gaby Haas.

Added entertainment included a number of ring attractions, sponsored by the Recreation Commission and the well known wrestling promoter, Al Oeming.

Don Kelly fought his way to a draw with Tommy Wright in the only boxing event of the night.

While the kids roared, Steve Bellman threw Johnny Bartolevitch around the ring, but came out loser in a rassle-hassle.

Cecil "Tiger" Goldstick emerged the winner in a second mat joust. In the main and final match Dollard Ouellet won over Tex Wilkins, who was 'disqualified.'

Al Oeming was the referee for the ring events.

Door prize, of a mantel radio, was won by Neil McNaughton. "Shure am lucky to win," said Neil when handed the radio.

Pratt Gets Old Heave-Ho

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Nov. 24—(CP)—The under-manned New Westminster Royals last night bowed 4-2 to visiting San Diego Sky Hawks in a rugged contest that saw playing-coach Babe Pratt of New Westminster banned from the ice in the last frame.

Normie Kirk, of Royals, was checked heavily by Freddie Weaver and Pratt exploded by roughing up referee Hank Wilson along the boards when no penalty was called.

Police were called in to restore order, after the crowd held up the play for more than five minutes. Trachuk was the big gun for the visitors, with an unassisted goal and two assists.

Fight Mob Claims Joe 'Has Been'

NEWARK, New Jersey, Nov. 24.—Retired heavyweight champion Joe Louis may be sincere when he insists "My exhibitions have nothing to do with a comeback." But the Brown Bomber's comment is being taken with a tongue-in-cheek attitude by the fight mob.

Louis took another "Ringside" decision in his second 10-round exhibition bout when he toyed with Joe Chesul Tuesday night at Newark, New Jersey. The next exhibition is scheduled for November 28, when Louis meets Johnny Flynn at Kansas City.

"I'll fight exhibitions because I don't train for them," explains Louis. "I don't mind fightin'—but I don't like trainin'."

The San Francisco heavyweight who is scheduled to meet Louis in an exhibition at Chicago on December 7—Pat Valentino—watched Louis drop Chesul three times.

Valentino, who was kayoed by NBA champion Ezzard Charles recently, commented he thought Louis has "slowed up" and that he is confident he can outpoint the Brown Bomber when they meet.

Schmidt Plays Old Role As Bruins Stop Toronto

BOSTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Captain Milt Schmidt, Boston Bruins' veteran centre, came up with his first goal of the current National Hockey league season to clinch a 3-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs last night before 11,744 fans at Boston Gardens.

Schmidt, cast in a defensive role until last Sunday, put on one of his old time sensational solo efforts to break a 1-1 deadlock during the 10th minute of the final period. Maple Leafs had a four-man attack going in the Boston zone when Schmidt gained the puck, fooled defenceman Mortson just over the Toronto line and then lashed a steaming 15-foot backhander through lonesome Turk Broda.

PEIRSON GOT TWO

Johnny Peirson, each time on a pass from Ken Smith, caged other two Bruin markers.

Ted Kennedy scored for Toronto.

League leading Detroit Red Wings had their hands full turning back New York Rangers 4-3 in a thrilling game that saw the New Yorkers stage a last-period rally that just failed to gain them a tie.

It was Detroiters' ninth successive game without a defeat and they enlarged their lead to nine points over second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Al Stanley rammed home his first goal of the season to give Rangers a first period lead.

ROUGH PERIOD

Six penalties were called in the opening period, one of them being especially costly to the Rangers as Joe Carveth rammed in a short one at the 11:20 mark to tie the score at 1-1.

Action continued hot-and-hevy in the second period which saw Detroit take a 4-1 lead on goals by Ted Lindsay, Jim McPherson and Carveth.

Midway in the final period, New York got its second goal of the night as Peptti Lund slipped one past goalie Harry Lumley at 14:47 while the Red Wings were a man short.

They got their third goal 12 seconds later while Detroit was still minus a man, this score coming off the stick of big Ed Slovinky at 16:09 with Bud Poile getting the assist.

RIDGELY, Tenn., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Two years ago board of education thought football prospects looked bad at Ridgely high school. It considered discontinuing the sport.

Board members didn't feel much better this year. School's enrolment was only 42. Entire football squad numbered 26 and average weight was less than 140. Coach Jack Wyatt was just out of college.

But the little squad won every one of 10 games on its season schedule.

Edmonton's individual scoring in the Empire Cities match: R. E. Locke, D. E. C. Campbell, W. R. Cutlan, W. V. C. Chisholm, R. R. Kerr, 100 each; J. Saidler, J. D. Hunter, P. Lee, J. Grieve, F. E. Coe, 99 each; J. H. Clucas, S. Leng, N. Arnold, F. C. Ockenden, A. Gourlay, D. Morter, C. R. Nash, A. Gibbons, Miss H. Ramsay, A. G. Bramley-Moore, 98 each; G. W. Mortimer, W. Ronahan, J. R. Sullivan, T. A. Moorhouse, 97 each; N. V. Mitchell, J. Robertson, 96 each; W. Heisig, 95; W. R. Horner, 94; H. Wilson, D. Heman, 93 each.

The matches were fired on home ranges, targets being checked in England.

Mercs One In 11 At World Games

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP)—Eleven countries have tentatively accepted invitations to compete in the 1950 world hockey championships here, J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association announced today.

Invitations have been forwarded to 18 countries.

Countries which have tentatively accepted the invitation include Canada, to be represented by Edmonton Mercurys, and Czechoslovakia winner of the title last spring in Stockholm.

Others who have accepted are Belgium, Poland, Sweden, France, Norway, the United States, Britain, Yugoslavia and Switzerland.

Ahearne said he also hoped for acceptances from The Netherlands, Austria and Finland. Final date for acceptances is Feb. 10, 1950.

Miss "Calling Dr. Mortimer Post"

Public address, or loudspeaker systems, have been installed in recent years and they work just fine in railway, bus stations and the like.

But I'm glad to report one type of public building in Edmonton that hasn't gone in for the squawk box. That's our hospitals.

Dr. A. C. McGugan, superintendent of the University hospital, told me that loudspeakers were vetoed by both the medical advisory and Edmonton hospital board.

A flasher light system is used for "calling" doctors and nurses in University hospital. The system works efficiently and patients are spared added ordeal of the "calling Dr. Jones" racket that goes on day and night in some American hospitals.

Superintendent Dr. McGugan thinks loudspeakers in hospitals an outrage. He says sufficient patients may be close enough to death's door as it is without having to hear a "voice from the tomb" calling out every few minutes.

And here's a secret code: In some US hospitals the public address system messages "calling Dr. Mortimer Post" when a post mortem under way reveals an interesting pathological condition.

An official at Ponoka mental hospital was seeing a departing patient to the door. "Now don't go away mad," was the parting advice.

She wonders why she was ever scared.

Breakfast in Bed is Free At This Posh City Hotel

By JOHN McLEAN
Bulletin Staff Reporter

It's a question whether Bob Kashower is a hotel man with an idea or an idea man with a hotel.

One way or the other, it was a happy day for Edmonton when the former U.S. sailor, pilot and airplane salesman decided to enter the hostelry business here.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

ROOMS ALWAYS FULL

[illegible]

[illegible] I couldn't get at other hotels."

It seems to have worked out fairly well both for Mr. Kashower and his guests.

The [illegible] hotel is just 300 yards from the airport administration building. Kashower's 52 rooms are full at all times.

"We can handle about 80 guests," says the genial host. "Most of them are oil men and their wives. [illegible]

"I serve about 150 meals a day [illegible]

Kashower says the oil men like his place. "It's quiet and homey. They like to sit in the lounge and talk oil. I bet there are more contracts signed here than anywhere else in Edmonton."

FOOD FOR GOURMETS

Kashower is proud of the fa[illegible] hotel [illegible]

He's got [illegible] from Belgium [illegible] "they're [illegible] which grow in a bed of olive oil" — avocados from California, shrimps from Louisiana, antipasto from Milan, mushrooms from France and something called terrine de fois gras aux truffes du perigord from Strasbourg.

Kashower recommends the latter but says his guests prefer Winnipeg goldeyes.

The whole place is furnished in the finest taste. As Kashower points out, even oil men like nice [illegible]

So he's covered the floors with soft grey carpets and [illegible] the rooms with plum colored furniture and warm drapes.

His guests don't have to get out of bed to reach the telephone, the switch for their electric blanket, the light or the radio. The bed lamps, as a matter of fact, are also radios.

It was [illegible] Bob Kashower [illegible] the airport for his [illegible]

A [illegible] academy he was a [illegible] for several years before he decided to go into commercial flying.

"There were times when I owned two or three planes and then there were times when I couldn't find the money to buy one."

During the war Bob was with Ferry Command for a while, then he did a job for the Chinese, flying transports "over the hump" from India to China.

BREAKFAST IS FREE

For a while after the war he was in the airplane business, in Oshawa and Montreal, selling and servicing aircraft.

Then he got the idea for the hotel. "Two or three people were in with me, but they changed their minds and I ended up with the whole idea to myself.

"If I'd leave the hotel alone I'd begin to make money," he grins. "But I get new ideas for the place every few days—and ideas cost money."

Of all the plush "extras" perhaps the most luxurious doo-dad is to be found in Kashower's private shower room—a telephone.

If you call him, don't be surprised if he answers with a gurgle.

Group Asks More Bridges for City

Neighbors Are Warned By Judge

One Stepaniuk, Topland district farmer, yesterday was acquitted by Mr. Justice Boyd McBride of a charge of wilful damage.

The charge arose when Alex Majarow, neighbor of Stepaniuk, found his recently-purchased mower in a damaged condition last February. Sleigh trail marks found near the [illegible] Stepaniuk's home.

RCMP Corporal W. R. Thompson of Westlock detachment [illegible] He [illegible] of snow in the bottom of Stepaniuk's home-made cutter. [illegible] Maloney of Regina laboratory said spec[illegible] proved the paint was the [illegible] mower.

Crown Prosecutor W. J. Shortreed said all the Crown's evidence [illegible]

Stepaniuk denied having made the statement to Corporal Thompson. He added that the corporal had examined the tread print on his moccasin rubbers for comparison with tread prints found around the damaged mower.

Defence Counsel Abe Miller claimed [illegible] proved against his client and asked for a dismissal.

Mr. Justice McBride, in finding Stepaniuk not guilty, pointed his remarks at 25 Topland district spectators in court and warned that an appearance before him of any person found guilty on a similar charge would not be given a jail term.

"Take my warning and spread it in your district that it will be the penitentiary," he said.

Approval Given Conversion Of High Level; Ask Paving

Plans for conversion of the High Level bridge received the endorsation of Edmonton Chamber of Commerce yesterday on condition that approaches at both ends of the bridge meet with the Chambers' approval.

This was disclosed following a joint meeting of the executive, traffic and advisory committees of the Chamber with Dr. P. L. Pratley, consulting engineer engaged by City of Edmonton to study cross-river traffic requirements. Dr. Pratley has been in Edmonton for [illegible]

Consideration by the Chamber [illegible] approaches to the bridge because final plans for this part of the project have not been completed, executive secretary for the Chamber, Don McKay said.

SUGGEST MORE BRIDGES

Chamber also urged that the city consider paving approaches to 105 street bridge to connect with [illegible] Queen Elizabeth Park road.

It also was proposed that the city consider the possibility of a Low Level road west from 105 street bridge, under the High Level [illegible] greater dispersal of traffic over [illegible]

Chamber also recommended that consideration be given construction of other bridges across North Saskatchewan river to meet future requirements.

Jack Weber was nominated as representative of Edmonton Chamber of Commerce to the Pacific Northwest Travel Association annual meeting in Calgary.

Charles Garnett was named to represent the Chamber on the Council of Social Agencies.

TO HAIRY HILL

President of the Chamber, Arthur L. Burrows, has accepted an invitation to attend ceremonies sponsored for Dec. 7 by Elks Lodge at Hairy Hill in honor of John Ellick who recently was crowned oats and barley king at Toronto Winter Fair.

Parents Are Blamed For Discipline Lack

Lack of parental discipline in Canadian youth was blamed last night as a major factor in the juvenile delinquency problem.

C. B. Hill, chairman of the sea cadet committee of the Edmonton Navy League, urged greater enrolment of Edmonton youth in military cadet groups, boy scouts, and other organized boy's groups.

"Consciously or unconsciously, it is the discipline they receive that moulds them into good future citizens," he told a meeting of the Sea Cadet Parents' Association at HMCS Nonsuch.

"Lack of parental discipline is largely responsible for our juvenile delinquency problem," he said.

Mr. Hill is superintendent of child welfare for the provincial government.

He [illegible] took over the chairmanship of the sea cadet committee from Roy Jackson who resigned through ill health.

Reporting on the national convention of the organization at Saskatoon last week, Mr. Hill said other sea cadet groups will follow the lead of Edmonton in starting parent associations.

Many Girls Behind Times, They Perfume Wrong Places

PERFUME PEN which "writes" alluring scent is latest thingamagig for milday's purse. Montreal perfume salesman Leo Lippel shows Lynne Sharpe just how gadget works, with deft strokes on young lady's throat. Pen holds enough scent for year, doesn't leak, can't evaporate.

Leon Lippel — it rhymes with lapel—wafted into town on a cloud of perfume yesterday and announced that smells are here to stay.

To prove his point, Mr. Lippel whipped out something that looked like a fountain pen, grabbed the prettiest brunette in the room and scribbled "Georgeous" on her wrist.

"Smell!" he commanded, and shoved the wrist under my nose.

"The man was right. I can't remember when I've smelled a lovelier wrist.

"This little gadget," said Mr. Lippel, "is going to revolutionize the perfume business.

"We call it the perfume-pen. It looks like a pen and it works like a pen—a ball-point pen." He is sure the product soon would find its way into every woman's purse.

He said the perfume-pen packs a year's supply (four scents are interchangeable), that it's good for 21,000 dabs before a refill is needed, and that the highly concentrated perfume can't evaporate.

Mr. Lippel, sales manager for a Montreal firm which is exclusive Canadian distributor of the perfume pen, said the gimmick was certain to become as much a fixture in milady's purse as lipstick.

The little pen is no longer than a tube of lipstick at that.

He had something to say also about where to dab your perfume.

If you are of the behind-the-ear school, or even pat the stuff on the back of your hand, you are away behind the times.

Perfume, said Mr. Lippel, should be dabbed behind the knee, in the bend of the elbow or at the throat—or anywhere arteries are close to the skin.

"With our perfume pen," said Mr. Lippel, "any girl can write her own ticket."

A wave of Lovesong filled the room and he was gone.

Out of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Egerton Pope, for years President of the Edmonton Museum of Arts, the Museum will be closed on Friday afternoon, from 1:00 to 3.00 p.m.

Rabbits Hop Into Local Shopping Scene

By Bea Thrifty

Jack Rabbit's Australian cousin has been taken for a ride.

And his destination just so happens to be the family stew pot. For the first time in simply ages rabbits were sold over the counter in Edmonton stores yesterday.

Rabbit, a chicken-like meat is a popular favorite for family and party menus. And there's a fabulous difference in price. The tasty bunny sells at 89c per [illegible]

You'll pay at least $2 for a five pound chicken these days . . . so there you have the story.

Meat of domestic rabbits is deliciously tender and fine-grained practically all white meat.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mother Speaks Against Children's Parties

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are entertainments and interests to which children are attached which may bore parents. They get tired of reading children's books aloud; they may feel a distaste for constant trips to the Zoo or the Park, or for the picnics the children adore.

While parents need not live a 100 per cent child-centred life, they are obligated to fulfill some of the children's desires even if they do not correspond with their own.

"Anxious" is concerned about parties. She writes, "My young son is two years old and is constantly being asked to parties of which I do not approve, by mothers of children about his own age.

"I object very much to these parties. I think they are silly. The children do not appreciate them and I know most mothers feel they have to give a return party out of sheer obligation.

"Do you think my friends would think me rude, old or strange if I refused outright to let my baby attend? I am tired when I get home and the baby is restless. It seems more like a party for mothers, so why take the babies at all? Now truly, what do you think?"

You won't like what I think, which is [illegible] your letter sounds as if you [illegible] selfish and refused to put yourself out to give your child pleasure since it gave you none.

Children love parties. Not too many, at two years, but enough to punctuate pleasantly the monotony of ordinary living. I think it is your obligation to highlight your son's birthday by some simple social event which will make the day outstanding for him and to allow him to participate in other events of like nature.

While it should be obvious that mothers should not take an ailing child where there are other children, this isn't a usual happening and should not be made the excuse for failing to give a party or going to one.

Our leaflet No. 81, "Parties for the Very Young", offers suggestions on time, refreshment and games. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

City Women Fail With Rental Plea

Social Credit Women's Auxiliary Favor Asking for Fed. Housing Plan

CALGARY, Nov. 24.—Efforts of a group of Edmonton women to push rent control responsibility into the hands of the provincial government failed here yesterday.

A resolution requesting the Alberta Social Credit government to assume rent control was amended out of existence at the Social Credit League women's auxiliary annual convention.

Instead delegates decided the provincial government should ask the federal government to devise a housing program which would be "fair and equitable to both landlord and tenant."

The original resolution seeking provincial government control of rents came from the Bellevue Women's Social Credit Auxiliary of Edmonton. It was amended by the resolution's committee before being presented to the convention.

THREE OPPOSED

The committee's resolution read: "Whereas the federal government should not shirk its duty in rent control, and whereas, without seeking the opinion of the provinces, it assumed the right to endorse control of rents, we urge the provincial government to request the federal government to devise a program fair and equitable to both landlords and tenants."

The amendment carried in the convention with only three votes recorded against it. Delegates did not vote on the original resolution.

The amended resolution will now go before the main convention body of the Alberta Social Credit League.

The Bellevue group, which introduced the unfavored resolution, scored at least a moral victory. During last year's conve[illegible] the same group lost a resolution se[illegible]ing sale of yellow margarine [illegible] Alberta. Yesterday's conve[illegible] passed with little discussion a resolution from Macleod Aux[illegible] asking the provincial gove[illegible] to allow the sale of colored margarine.

ASK DRIVERS' TESTS

Other resolutions endorsed by the convention sought drivers' tests for motorists, minimum $50 a month old-age pensions at 65 years with abolition of the means tests, no increase in radio license fees, non-denominational religious instruction in schools, and more effective punishment of sex criminals.

Mrs. George Whittingback of Edmonton was elected president of the auxiliary. She succeeds Mrs. Clarence Olson of Calgary, who was named first vice-president. Mrs. Floyd Baker of Edmonton was re-elected second vice-president.

Once per year per child every mother faces the problem of the 'Birthday Party."

And unless mamma is a model of calm, imaginative efficiency or has at least studied four years of child psychology, she is going to be thrown into a perfect swivet at the very notion . . . I know.

Entertaining for any age group is admittedly a problem . . . but when you have your own jumping-jack three-year-old multiplied by ten just like him . . . mother you have worries!

But even the worries are fun. This is an occasion when you can let yourself go hog-wild with frills, furbelows, crepe paper streamers, favors 'n' such.

* * *

[illegible] caps, horns, nut baskets you have provided, the more animal-shaped goodies and cutouts, the better the party in your small fry's eyes.

Time-worn adage of "the other kids always do it THIS way" will govern your party plans when the young'uns are stars of the day.

* * *

[illegible] start out with your [illegible] will be more for you than for the young one. He may not be too interested in the aggregation of mothers of guests who coo and gurgle over him with saccharine sweetness.

As a matter of fact he'll probably indicate his displeasure with a bit of healthy yelling [illegible] with mother apologizing wearily all over the place.

But it is nevertheless an occasion not to be missed. So best plan [illegible] party for the mothers and feed the tiny guests a bit of ice cream, doctor [illegible].

By all means, have a fine, gaily decorated birthday cake, resplendent with one candle. The mothers will enjoy it and the little person should have his photo taken with it for the family album.

As age [illegible] progresses, [illegible] themes take top honors. Three-four-five-six year olds love parties based on Mother Goose Nursery rhymes or circus animals or [illegible].

Menus must be kept simple so no tummy aches enter the party scene. Supper parties please parents if an adequate supper is [illegible].

Fond memories of a very very gala occasion are tucked away in a yellowed scrapbook with a gray paper "elephant ear" invitation.

I [illegible] pleasure when the post-man handed me a letter addressed to Miss Jane Scott . . . and neatly printed in the corner "personal".

They love the color, the 'zip' of the fizzy ginger ale (providing they're old enough to drink a little ginger ale.

PINK SPICE
6 small bottles ginger ale
½ cup currant jelly
½ cup water
10 cloves
4 teaspoons lemon juice
4 lemon slices

Empty 2 bottles into freezing tray and freeze. Chill remaining 4 bottles. Heat currant jelly, water and cloves in small saucepan, combine to make a syrup. Cool; remove cloves and add lemon juice. To serve, shave or crack carbonated beverage ice and place in tall glasses. Pour ¼ cup syrup over ice in each glass. Garnish glasses with lemon slices. Serve together with chilled bottles of carbonated beverage. Serves 4.

* * *

APRICOT COOLER
½ cup orange juice
1 cup apricot juice
1½ cups (12-ounce bottle) ginger ale.
½ cup coffee-cream, or vanilla ice cream, optional.

Mix fruit juices and pour over ice cubes in 4 glasses. Fill glasses with ginger ale, giving it a quick stir to blend with fruit juice. Float cream or ice cream on top, if an extra smooth rather than gingery taste is preferred. Serves 4.

* * *

GINGER ORANGE FREEZE
2 cups orange juice
½ cup lemon juice
[illegible]
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 quart ginger ale or charged water
1 pint orange sherbert

[illegible] and sugar. Divide over crushed ice in six tall glasses. Fill each glass half full of ginger ale. Float a scoop of sherbet in each glass and fill to top with remaining ginger ale. Serves 6

* * *

CALIFORNIA FLOAT
2 cups orange juice
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 cup water
1 pint sherbert

Combine ingredients and stir well. Pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. Garnish with [illegible]. Serves 6.

* * *

ORANGE SHAKE
1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 cups orange juice chilled

Combine orange juice and ice cream in bowl. Cut the ice cream with a spoon until it can be beaten with a hand or electric beaer. Beat [illegible] drink. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

* * *

MOLASSES BANANA MILK SHAKE
1 medium fully-ripe banana
1 cup cold milk
Few grains salt
1 tablespoon New Orleans molasses
Few drops vanilla extract

Mash banana with fork until [illegible] milk [illegible] molasses and vanilla extract. Shake well. Serves 1.

* * *

EGG NOG
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons sugar
Dash of nutmeg

Crib Party To Be Held Friday Night

Cribbage party will be held by Highlands Community League Friday [illegible]

MAJOR CELEBRATION for the family is first birthday party for the tiny tot. A one-year-old doesn't get much of a thrill from the strange festivities but parents certainly do. A gaily decorated birthday c ake will catch his attention.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, Nov. 25, 1949

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mixed vibrations, be extra careful in written [illegible] bids. Practical trades, engineering, transportation interests among top favored. Be logical.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Mildly favorable, particularly for your day's [illegible] ful industrial matters. Building, electrical work, handling tools and machinery can make unusual strides.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your Mercury now warns against carelessness, mostly in little but important things. Try to finish necessary tasks [illegible] papers.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Not all favorable for personal desires perhaps, but you can turn in a good record by attending closely to business [illegible] happy week-end.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your Sun [illegible] trades, manufacturing, clerical work (extra care here), mining, road-building, railroading, domesticity, farming.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) [illegible] journalists, artists, others using the pen and mind, but it can be fruitful if you are a little more patient than usual and use well your imagination and intuition.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Similar to Taurus today. Up to you greatly, how you manage, react to and allocate your efforts [illegible] whether or not day is [illegible]. Don't worry, but do finish first.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mixed influences: be careful not to neglect important matters for the less urgent, and don't delay needlessly then have to rush. A well-managed [illegible] results soon.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You are one of the fortunate ones with your Jupiter in excellent [illegible] money propositions, necessary matters are favored. Care stressed in promises.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be careful, but not apprehensive or fearful. No worth-while effort is ever wholly lost, and gains are [illegible] cautious, farseeing. Sound matters offer most.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Good day generally, and particularly for familiar activities, progressive projects [illegible] decisive when you should act.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Splendid influences for you now. Quickly arrange day's schedule to despatch essentials first. Time for pleasures, entertainment later. Prepare thoughtfully for a happy week-end.

You Born Today—Sincere, bright, ambitious somebody. If living true to your better instincts are honorable, charitable. Excellent qualifications [illegible] business field, or will be a thorough and skilled worker at trade or everyday duties. Many [illegible] in various branches of public life were Scorpio born. Guard against quick temper, skepticism, jealousy. And do not let flatterers fool you—you're too smart for such nonsense. [illegible] immediately ahead. Birthdate of Andrew Carnegie, American industrialist, philanthropist.

Watch Your Entries And Win Contracts

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

The bridge players of the nation were pleased to know that their [illegible] is [illegible] General Gruenther, Deputy Chief of Staff of National Defense for Plans and Combat Operations. For years General Gruenther was secretary of the Vanderbilt Cup tournament committee.

Today's hand was a most appropriate one to discuss with the general who makes plans for combat operations. There were enough high cards in the North and South hands to justify the three no trump contract, but the distribution of the spade suit was unfortunate.

If the general had won the first spade trick, there would have been nothing but defeat; but he let East hold the first trick with the queen. When East returned the eight of spades, the general won it with the ace. Now the nine of hearts was won in dummy with the jack and a small club led. Here the general had to risk everything with the finesse of the queen of clubs. When it held, he [illegible] back into dummy to lead the other club, so he led the ten of hearts from his hand.

Be careful now! Do not win this trick in dummy with the queen of hearts. You must win it as the general did, with the ace. Then he led the small club. If East had played low, there would have been no problem. Declarer would have won the trick with the ace and led another club. But East made a smart defensive play [illegible] and the general let him hold the trick. East returned a diamond [illegible] won in dummy with the ace, and now the general led the queen of hearts and overtook it in his own hand with the king.

If he had made the mistake of [illegible] the second heart trick with the queen, he would have had no entry into his own hand. But by carefully planned strategy, first with the spade suit, then with the club suit, and last but not least, with the heart suit, three no trump was made.

Mrs. C. Stone Entertains For Daughter

Pink and white baby chrysanthemums decorated the home of Mrs. Cyril Stone yesterday afternoon and evening when she entertained at a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Elenor.

Miss Stone will be married Saturday to Rudolph Dobrowolski.

Receiving her 85 guests, Mrs. Stone was in turquoise crepe, her frock complemented by a corsage of deep red carnations. The bride-elect chose a dress of smoke grey taffeta and wore a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. A. Dober, mother of the bridegroom-elect, wore a black and white figured crepe model and a corsage of red carnations.

Hand-crocheted cloth covered the tea table which was centred by a cut glass bowl of baby chrysanthemums flanked by pink and white tapers.

Mrs. Ray Dorey, Mrs. J. E. McClocklin, Mrs. K. Stoobart and Mrs. R. W. Deyl presided at the tea-urns while Mrs. Harry Armstrong and Mrs. Robert Stone invited guests into the dining room.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Walter Dober, Mrs. F. B. Wharton, Mrs. F. N. Dalby, Mrs. Robert Stone, Mrs. Donald Burley, Mrs. W. D. Deyl, Mrs. Cecil Whitfield, Miss Lillian Cook, Miss Ruth Bowen and Miss Berenice Kitchener.

Diapers On Buggy Dash Dried By Prairie Winds

DRUMHELLER, Nov. 24.—Speakers for the annual old-timers' banquet and dance injected a large measure of honor into their graphic accounts of the pioneer days of this rich coal mining and prosperous farming area.

Development of mining and agriculture were described by four men and two women, each of whom arrived in the early 1900's.

Mrs. John Brown, wife of the first minister, told of trip into the territory as a settler from Airdrie by buggy in 1909. The trip took nearly a week.

The cavalcade included teams for the household goods and a buggy for both Mrs. J. Brown ad Mrs T. Brown. An eight-month old baby and a two year old child were included in the group.

Diaper drying, Mrs. Brown said, was solved merely by hanging the small white squares over the dashboard.

In the last stages of the journey the party crossed what Mrs. Brown believed was the Michichi creek then at low water seve[illegible] within a few miles.

At the seventh crossing Mrs. T. Brown dismounted and tak[illegible] baby under each arm waded the stream. The buggy, Mrs. Brown said, rattled to a breakdown with[illegible] sight of the new home.

DRIVE FOR WATER

During the first day at the new home in Verdant Valley the men had to drive a wagon five miles to get a household supply of water.

Mail, which was then shipped [illegible] Hand Hills, was a major problem.

"King George and Queen Mary," Mrs. Brown pointed out, "were on the throne of England for three weeks before we learned ab[illegible]"

The activities of the literary society and the visiting of neighbors may not have been excitement for this generation, Mrs. Brown felt, but the occasional antics of a runaway horse, a cyclonic wind capable of wiping out the crop within 20 minutes, or the co[illegible] coyote raids were excitement enough at the time to keep life in[illegible]

NO WOMEN AROUND

Mrs. Jimmy Russell, who made the trek with her family to the district from Calgary in 1906, said that she was in the area nearly six months before she set eyes on another woman.

Mr. Russell, she said, was in the valley in 1897. The fact that as a marine engineer Mr. Russell had travelled throughout the entire world and then decided to settle here to raise cattle was one of the mysteries of life, to her.

During the winter of '06 and '07 the hardest to ever hit this area the Russell herd was reduced from 2,200 to 800.

Hauling feed from Horse Sh[illegible] Canyon meant that the teamsters broke trail on the way over and then dug out the drifts on the way back.

Gus Anderson, who now resides at Penticton, B.C., remembered that on one occasion a saddle horse fell with him. Anderson was forced to cut the boot off his swollen foot and then spent the next two days alone doctoring the foot with hot water before aid came through a rider from the Two-Bar Ranch.

A doctor in Calgary, treating Anderson's foot some days later, described the treatment according to Anderson in these terms: "God takes care of fools and children."

That a bridge he was hesitant to cross with a wagon load of goods went merrily down the flooding creek the moment he was safe on land was another incident that Anderson recalled.

Joe Shearlaw, who pointed ou[illegible] early [illegible] recalled several escapades of bootlegger, who when chased by the law, led his pursuer to the excavation of an "out-house" with disastrous results [illegible] the policeman.

Gordon E. Taylor, MLA, said the district was proud of the accomplishments of the pioneers.

Birds Give Good Idea Of Future Weather

Boys and girls, it is easy to become a weather prophet if you observe the ways of birds and beasts. Birds are perhaps the most reliable of natural weather forecasters.

Rooks, which do not like to get wet, gather on trees near home if they expect rain, and when they fly to distant fields from their nests weather will be fine. When these birds are very lively and restless it is a sign of wind.

PEACOCKS WARN

[illegible] Edmonton zoo crying, especially at night, look out for bad weather.

Owls crying at night seem to mean a change in the weather for good or bad. But hooting in the early morning is a sign of a fine day.

When swallows are flying high it is a sure sign of a fine day, but when they swoop low with queer twists and antics you may expect rain.

On the farm you can fortell the weather by studying the chickens and ducks.

Cock crowing at sundown denotes advent of wet weather. Hens before rain, pick at their feathers and fluff themselves out, and when rain is very near they make for shelter.

Geese flying low above water generally mean rain is near. If they are [illegible] wind coming, and wet weather can be [illegible] when they shelter in [illegible].

SWANS SMART

Swans are uncanny in foretelling weather changes. When a flood is coming they move their nests to ground above water level. During hard frost they go ashore, and before we can know of weather change they return to the frozen surface and wait at a place where they know a thaw will begin.

[illegible] you can be pretty sure it will soon be clear, even though rain is falling, if the sparrows begin to twitter, and the blackbirds and thrushes come out on the lawn.

The robin dislikes wet and stays in shelter when rain is near.

Sincerely,

Joan Walker

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Old Dog Tray looked at Pussy Cat Mole and Pussy Cat Mole looked at Old Dog Tray. Then she mewed:

"Did you bring my picture story book, Mr. Tray, if you please?"

"Here it is. I never want to see it again. I hate books!" Mr. Tray spoke in almost a cross, growling voice this time. "Take your book!" and he threw it toward Pussy Cat Mole. That wasn't polite, of course.

Pussy Cat Mole picked up the book and mewed:

"Why it's all wet!"

"Of course it is," barked Mr Tray. "I couldn't very well swim across Frog Pond with your book and not get it wet."

"Your book isn't very wet, Pussy Cat Mole," said Bunty. "It has dried in the sun and wind. You can still read it and look at the pictures."

"That's more than Old Dog Tray can do," mewed Pussy. "He can't read. He never went to school but one day and then he ran out."

"How do you know this, Pussy?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Billy the blue jay told me. Now I'm going back home with my book. I still have to mend the hole in my other petticoat — my green one that I wore when I jumped over the coal."

"Will you please take me back to my Island, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Mr. Tray.

"Yes, I'll do that," answered the rabbit gentleman. "But I would like to know, Mr. Tray, why you hate school."

"Do you want to hear my story now or when we get to my island?"

"I think we'll wait until we get back to your Island, Mr. Tray. Now there is a football game to be played. After that we'll go to your island on my amusement raft."

"Well, it's about time!" quacked Jimmie the duck. "Come on, Buster. It's your kick-off"

"Are the boys going to kick that ball again?" asked Mr. Tray.

"Sure we have to kick the football when we play."

"Excuse me! I'm going to get out of the way of that football!" Mr. Tray started to run and Miss Mouse called:

"You may sit in my school, if you wish, Mr. Tray. The football can't bump you there. Sit in the school!"

"Oh, no, thank you! I'll never go in school!" barked the old dog

It was a good game and neither side won for it was a tie—seven for each side

Then Uncle Wiggily called Old Dog Tray

"Now we'll get on my amusement raft and go to the Island of Joy before Frog Pond freezes for Christmas," said Mr. Longears.

In a short time the raft began sailing across Frog Pond to Old Dog Tray's Island. There they all had many adventures

Dinner at Antoine's

By Frances Parkinson Keyes

SYNOPSIS: Orson Foxworth, shipping magnate, has returned from South America to rediscover and court an old flame, Amelie Lalande, mother of the unhappy Odile St. Amant, wife of Leonce St. Amant, [illegible] Odile's sister, Caresse Lalande. Foxworth's niece, Ruth [illegible], who is visiting New Orleans, has also met the handsome Russ Aldridge. At least two people are genuinely concerned over Odile's [illegible]; the other is Dr. Perrault, who has promised to give her a thorough examination. Now go on with the story.

Chapter Three

Under most ordinary or even extraordinary circumstances, Orson Foxworth ate heartily and slept soundly. He looked down on men who picked at their food, or complained of insomnia as weaklings.

Long after he had gone to bed, he tossed and turned, pounded his pillow, swore under his breath, and gulped drinks of water, all to no avail. The tossing and turning, the pillow-pounding, and water-drinking, went on until almost dawn. He could not get Amelie Lalande out of his mind.

She was just as desirable as when he had first suggested that she should meet him in Puerto de Oro, one of his Central American headquarters—and she had indignantly refused.

The indignation was genuine enough; but its source was injured pride rather than outraged virtue, and Amelie was far too smart not to know that he realized this.

He was attractive to her too, and he would have been the last to find this surprising; he had always had a way with women, and he was in no danger of losing it, even yet—of that he had abundant proof.

But his attraction for Amelie was not so consuming that she would count the world well lost for his sake. She was very fond of the world, especially her own little world in New Orleans. She had no mind to abandon this for a hideaway in some mongrel port.

LONELINESS INCREASED

He had not taken that first refusal very hard. But he had missed her, and longed for her, more than he would have believed possible, when he went back to Puerto de Oro without her. The loneliness and the yearning had increased with the years, in spite of intervening distractions.

He had not meant to renew his suggestion the very first time he saw her, but she looked so lovely and seemed in so melting a mood, as they danced together, that he had whispered with almost collegiate impetuosity:

"You and I were meant to be lovers, Amelie," he said. "I know it and you know it, though you won't admit it yet. And if you put off the admisison much longer, it'll come too late to do us any good.

It isn't as if we were still youngsters, with the best part of our lives stretching out ahead of us. You know the [illegible] 'It's later than you think.' It IS later than you think, dearest. But it isn't too late."

"Yes, it is."

"I tell you it isn't. We could have at least ten glorious years. And when I say glorious that's what I mean. Love can't be glorious when it is fettered. Anyway, it [illegible] be for us. You think I've affronted you by not asking you to be my wife.

The real affront would have been [illegible] I know you better than you know yourself. You need a chance to go your own way almost as much as I do. At least you need to feel you can.

However, I will marry you. I know you're wrong and I'm right, but you win. Now that's settled when do we have the wedding?"

HAD NO CHOICE

"I've got to talk to you," she said. "And I [illegible] do it while we're dancing. Let's [illegible] out the rest of this, if you don't mind."

Without turning, she walked on. He had no choice but to follow.

"Listen," she said. "I've missed you too. I've missed you a lot. So much that I'd almost made up my mind—well, that if you asked me to go along with you again I wouldn't say no." She paused, her voice sinking lower and lower. "It wasn't an easy decision to make, Orson. If I'd come with you it would have been the first time I'd done anything like that and [illegible]"

"I know it and it means a lot to me. But what makes you say you'd come, it would have been—?"

"I can't leave Odile now. She's a hopeless in[illegible]"

"You're crazy! She's let her nerves get the better of her, for some reason, and her right hand shakes a little. I've seen dozens of great husky men whose hands shook. It doesn't amount to anything."

"In this case I'm afraid it does. I'm absolutely sure, because Odile's declined to see Vance Perrault professionally for months now. But he told me, a long time ago, that he aws afraid she was developing what he called paralysis agitans."

INCURABLE DISABILITY

"What's paralysis agitans?"

"Look it up for yourself. Or ask Vance to tell you about it. But meanwhile, take my word for it the thing's incurable."

"It doesn't sound too good, from the little you've told me," he said. "Does she [illegible]"

"Only from her sense of disability. She can't do her own hair or dress herself. And she's growing worse very rapidly. I couldn't desert her now," Amelie whispered. "She's terribly isolated already. Since she hasn't been able to do the things her friends are doing, she's been more and more cut off from them.

"And, the worst part of all is that, as far as Leonce is concerned—well, of course I can't talk about that." Again Amelie looked away and again Foxworth followed her glance this time towards the dance floor.

Caresse was laughing, as she lifted her head so that Leonce could rest his chin against it, and the expression on his face was one of [illegible].

ISN'T IRRESISTIBLE

"Good God!" Foxworth exclaimed. "Surely you don't think—"

"Hush!" Amelie said again, more warningly than before. "We must stop talking about this. That Darcoa girl keeps looking over here."

"What Darcoa girl?"

"The one who just got up."

"You don't mean to say that knockout is Francisco Darcoa's daughter?"

"I wouldn't call her such a knockout. She isn't married yet and she's way along in her twenties. So evidently she isn't irresistible."

"Perhaps she's the one who hasn't found what she's looking for."

"Of course you're welcome to think so. I don't want to start an argument. Let's not talk about Odile any more, either. You do understand though, don't you, that I couldn't abandon her now. And not just on account of her helplessness. [illegible]

Of course, if I could stay on in New Orleans after you and I were [illegible], I, that would be entirely [illegible] take physical charge of the poor child under my supervision.

SHE'D CONSENT

[illegible] consent very willingly to such an arrangement, if he thought she were adding to my happiness; and the other situation [illegible]. But [illegible] not willing to leave me behind.

And if I went off to Central America with you, leaving her alone, in her pitiful condition, to face a scandal between her husband and her sister—why, it would be kinder to kill her tomorrow and put her out of her misery!"

Amelie touched her eyes again with a filmy handkerchief and then tucked it into the bosom of her dress. She smiled bravely up at her companion.

"Let's dance again and not let anyone guess how sad we're feeling," [illegible] she said. "But don't forget. I do love you. I love you so much that I would have gone with you this time, on any terms, if it hadn't been for Odile."

IN RETROSPECT

This was the conversation which, in retrospect, so greatly disturbed Foxworth's rest. The more he considered the dilemma, the more hopeless he became of reaching any satisfactory solution. Finally he fell asleep, but his slumbers brought him no refreshment.

He kept dreaming about Amelie. She was no longer his destined mistress, his beloved mate, his joyous and yielding captive. She was only a bloodless wraith and at last only a distant voice, whispering, "If it hadn't been for Odile. . . ."

For a long time he himself was the prisoner of his dreams, rousing enough to recognize their unreality, but insufficiently to free himself from them. At last he succeeded in stumbling to his shower, and with the shock of cold water, in regaining his sound senses.

He rang for coffee and drank it, as usual, in his room, glancing over the morning paper and running through his mail as he did so.

Then he finished dressing and went down to the library, where he found Ruth bending over a great copper tray with a fluted brim, filled to overflowing with camellias, which had been set on a low table.

"Look!" she said excitedly. "These were brought in just a few minutes ago, just as they are, in this tray. I've never had such beautiful flowers sent to me before, or so many all at once!"

"Are eastern suitors stingy nowadays, or aren't any of them connoisseurs of camellias?" Foxworth inquired quizzically. "Oh, never mind! But whoever sent you this offering is plenty prodigal and plenty expert too.

It costs a pile of money to raise flowers like that, and you can't walk into any florist's and order them offhand, either. That's a mighty fine display—very rare varieties arranged to the best possible advantage. Do you know the names of some of them?"

"Only Pink Perfection and Alba Plena."

Foxworth held up his hand in mock horror. "What? You can't recognize Adolph Audusson or Cardinal Richelieu or Governor Mouton or any of the other distinguished gentlemen in the camellia family? And speaking of distinguished gentlemen, did the one who sent you this collection do it anonymously, or did he reveal his name?"

"Oh, he revealed his name," Ruth said laughing. "In fact, there wasn't anything at all mysterious about it. A very nice note from Russ Aldridge came with the flowers."

Canadian Developments Offer Attractive Future

IMPERIAL BANK OF CANADA EXECUTIVES ADDRESS 75th. ANNUAL MEETING

Problems Of International Trade Must Be Solved

Toronto, November 23:—The 75th. Annual Meeting of Imperial Bank of Canada was held today at the Head Office in Toronto. The Chairman of the Board, Mr. R. S. Waldie, commented on the fact that the Bank has grown steadily over its 75 years without the aid of mergers or amalgamations, although the assets of a small Western institution serving a limited territory in Saskatchewan were purchased in 1931.

It has built up a reputation, second to none, and has won its own place in public confidence for security and service. Mr. Waldie stated that the Bank has over 390,000 savings depositors and more than 60,000 current account depositors while shareholders number 3,073. The Bank has paid dividends annually to its shareholders since its inception.

Mr. W[illegible]

Canadian Banks have always been in the forefront in opening up new [illegible] and providing banking facilities, often actually in advance of the needs of the community, and none more so than the Imperial Bank of Canada. In addition to catering to the needs of industry in the larger centres, the Bank has always been ready to foster industry in the smaller places and to assist the small farmer, trader, industrialist or business man, who in the long run form the backbone of the nation.

In addition to its branches in the larger places the Bank has throughout the various provinces 55 branches in communities with a population of 1,000 or less and 34 branches in communities with between 1,000 and 5,000 population. In 72 of these smaller communities the Bank owns its own premises and is a substantial taxpayer. In all these places the branch managers and their staffs are active members of the local communities.

BUSINESS IN 1949

On the whole, the year since our last Annual Meeting has been one of [illegible]rising stability. The very large investment in factories, machines, houses and services, which has been so great a factor in creating active business conditions since the war, has been fully maintained and even extended. In [illegible] with the previous year, there has been less investment in manufacturing plants and more in [illegible] utilities and housing. Our [illegible] were expected to be [illegible] held up well. There has been some decline in particular products but, as regards markets, only that of Continental Europe has as yet shown a pro[illegible]. [illegible] there has been some slight fall in prices, they have, on the whole, been remarkably steady. Unemployment has been somewhat higher but it has been chiefly seasonal unemployment and its relative size has been small.

As in our own Bank, banking business in Canada has shown a marked steadiness and growth. Total bank [illegible] are somewhat higher than a year ago and the increase is fairly evenly distributed among loans, securities and cash reserves.

[illegible] tax reductions of the last Budget, the revenues of the National Government have continued [illegible] some increase in [illegible] budgetary surplus [illegible].

The year behind us has been one of steady achievement and prosperity, better on the whole than had been forecast.

THE PROSPECTS AHEAD

One of the most helpful developments in the past year and equally promising for the future has been the extension of oil discoveries in Alberta and other western provinces and their rapid and efficient expansion. The area which can presently be served by the thousand producing wells has been turned from an area importing oil from the United States to one which is self-supporting. When the new pipeline and other facilities for efficient transportation become available, Western Canada will be able to supply much of the oil requirements of the East or, alternatively, if suitable trade arrangements can be made, can export large quantities to the United States, and so [illegible] eastern imports from the United States and Central and South America.

The great flow of capital to this [illegible] business activity throughout the year. The rapid development of [illegible] presents, however, many difficult problems, problems in the fair and efficient use of natural resources and in the provision for a rapid influx in population. I should like to pay a tribute to the Premier of Alberta, Mr. Manning, and his Cabinet, for their [illegible] and foresight in the provisions [illegible] have made for allotting oil-bearing [illegible] prospective oil bearing properties, and for the care which they have exercised in protecting the public [illegible]. In fact, I do not recall any [illegible] example in our history of the prudent and systematic management [illegible] public resources.

Other domestic factors, influencing the level of business, also promise well [illegible] the farming communities generally have had a good year. Notwithstanding variations among particular groups, there is in total ample income in the hands of consumers to maintain a high level of purchasing.

We may expect, particularly in the larger urban communities, continued large expenditures to provide services to larger and more actively engaged populations. Transportation and public utilities, water and sewage installations, schools, hospital and other health services still represent a considerable backlog of expenditure whether it is the spending of governments, or supported by government grants, or the investment of private capital.

In the field of housing, about 100,000 units will have been completed by the end of the year. For the first time since the war more units have been built than there were new families to occupy them and we had reduced somewhat the backlog. We may expect house construction to be active in the coming year but the problem of costs is a serious one. Houses produced by the speculative builder are not selling as rapidly as before. Many people are paying rents or debt charges which are too high for their incomes. While a housing slump is not immediately in prospect, demand will soon be choked off unless substantial reductions in construction costs can be achieved.

If we look at our internal situation only, we must conclude that the outlook for business activity is favourable. We must never forget, however, the [illegible] being is dependent on our external trade. Almost the whole of our primary industry is very heavily dependent on outside markets and a smaller but [illegible] industry requires foreign markets in addition to home demand. When we look abroad, we can see serious difficulties which may beset our path in the future.

Prosperity of United Kingdom and Europe Bound Up With America

Mr. Waldie continued:—

In speaking of this summer's crisis, we should not overlook the very substantial and real recovery which has taken place in the United Kingdom and in Europe. The production in western Europe with the exception of [illegible] pre-war level. The United Kingdom has succeeded in raising its exports on a volume basis about 50 per cent above the pre-war level. While the crisis which occurred was particularly a sterling crisis, the United Kingdom in fact had done very much more towards increasing its exports and balancing its accounts than any European country.

It is true that Europe and the United Kingdom have been enormously weakened by two world wars, but the real roots of the crisis go deeper even than that. For four centuries, Europe was the expanding and dynamic centre of the economic world. For the past sixty years or more, her position has been declining. There has been a slackening of new investment and of industrial modernization and a loss of competitive strength in external markets. The real situation has been concealed by the using up of capital, both internal and external, and by the low level of business activity in the inter-war years.

The immediate crisis has subsided. The fundamental question still remains. There must be, over the next few years, a great readjustment in world trade. If Europe is to earn her living she must sell much more to North America. But, is North America willing to accept the increase in imports which will be necessary if the United Kingdom and Europe are to succeed in balancing their accounts? Is North America willing continuously to invest abroad such export surpluses as may result from free trading? Is the United States willing to see her export surplus disappear or be converted into an import surplus? It is only by so doing that the United States will assume the full responsibilities which attach to her position as the greatest creditor nation. This is the transformation which must come about if the western trading world is to be re-created and a solid sub-structure is to be placed under The Atlantic Pact. These are the final questions of which the devaluation crisis was merely the advance notice.

There is a danger of thinking in out-of-date terms. In the thirties we thought of imports as unwanted goods and threats to jobs. Now there are [illegible]. Moreover, high wages on this Continent have made goods with high labour contents almost too expensive to buy. It is precisely these goods which Europe can produce cheaply, for her greatest assets are the number and skill of her workers.

There is a second and for Canada a more serious consideration. The United Kingdom and Europe are naturally deficient in food and some raw materials. There is no other alternative market for a substantial part of our cereals and some other foods, our lumber and to some degree our metals. Unless their capacity to pay is increased by the growing proceeds of their exports, Europe and the United Kingdom will be forced to seek a position nearer to self sufficiency. If they do so, their standard of living will be sharply reduced and so also will ours.

It is the United States which must accept the larger challenge. Canada's export surplus is small and we have been great importers as well as great exporters. But in smaller measure, there is also a challenge to this country. We too must be prepared to take more imports from the United Kingdom and Europe.

[illegible] future is, can Europe and North America achieve a new and mutually beneficial relationship, one which will improve standards of living on both Continents and place a solid foundation under the Atlantic Pact? This is not merely a challenge to governments, it is a challenge to free enterprise on this Continent whose boast it is that it has the flexibility, initiative and resourcefulness to cope successfully with new situations.

Business Maintained at High Level

Long Term Prosperity Assured Says Bank General Manager

Toronto, November 23:—Mr. I. K. Johnston, General Manager, Imperial Bank of Canada, speaking to the 75th. Annual Meeting of Shareholders held in Toronto today, stressed the fact that the prosperity of the country at this point was undoubted and general business of all kinds was maintained at a very high level in 1949

Mr. Johnston, commenting, on general business conditions said in part: Our crops in the year were not up to those of 1948 owing [illegible] and a prolonged drought in the East but in spite of these hindrances were substantial. General business of all kinds was maintained at a very high level and our prosperity at this point is undoubted. [illegible] Statement, just read to you, as our branches cover the country and since we opened in Halifax I can say properly—from Halifax to Victoria and from the southern border to Yellowknife in the North West Territories.

Last year I mentioned the oil developments in Alberta and the iron ore in Quebec and Labrador. Undoubtedly these two developments are most outstanding and we may look to them for [illegible]

In the oil situation we now see much that was potential become actual and with millions of acres well located but not yet explored the potential is so great that it is difficult for any of us to grasp fully the possibilities. Many [illegible] of what can be done when hope and [illegible] The Government of the Province of Alberta have handled this great resource in a most efficient manner for the good of the people of the Province and of all Canada. I am happy in the [illegible] the Province of Alberta are strategically placed to serve the provincial population and to obtain advantage from this great development. It is [illegible] first Bank to open in the capital city, Edmonton, September 1891 and we have now five branches in that city. The iron ore development is of necessity slower, but the possibilities are of world significance.

Our non-ferrous mining industry is prospering and during the year we saw the great Quemont mine brought into production as scheduled—a fine engineering feat under present conditions.

In connection with our gold mining industry I hope that ways and means [illegible] and keep it at a high level. It is of great [illegible] what we have, even if under present-day conditions it is not profitable to fully develop it.

It seems to me that considering the geographical situation of Canada, increased population would be a great strength to us. From an internal standpoint it would lessen our dependence on exports by increasing the [illegible] of 13 and one half millions, is approximately that of the United States 115 years ago. We have much to offer and [illegible] our increased housing is only keeping pace with our increased yearly requirements, apart from our backlog of demand, it would be helpful if we could attract to this country skilled workers in the trades allied to the building industry.

Our attention in the Bank at this time is turned to the past as this is our Seventy-Fifth Anniversary, and if I may make a personal reference I will tell you that I have known all of the six previous General Managers Mr. Wilkie having been General Manager when I entered in 1904. In 1875 when the Bank opened his title was "Cashier". The capital of the Bank was $500,000, we had one branch and a staff of eight. Mr. Wilkie died in 1914, then being President and General Manager, and your Bank had been built into a sound and flourishing institution of which he was very proud. We owe him much for the good foundation and the tradition of sound banking which he left. In my time in Toronto I have had the [illegible] Mr. Jaffray, as well as Mr. [illegible] different personalities but having one thought in common, the welfare of this Bank. I know that you are sorry, as I am, not to have our President with us today and I feel you join with me in the hope for his recovery.

In this new and challenging age it is really more difficult to predict very far in advance. We have scars to show of our troubles in the past and I believe we have a better understanding of many things as a result. The immediate present is bright but there are some matters of which a full appraisal is not yet possible, such as the devaluation of Sterling and our own exchange. Notwithstanding these and other uncertainties I feel there is an urge behind business as a whole which will make the coming year an equally good one, but business generally will be wise to continue to operate with care in the matter of strict attention to developments and maintenance of sound and balanced positions.

In closing I would like to pay a tribute to the assistance and [illegible] guidance I have had from our Chairman of the Board Mr. Waldie, our President Mr. Moe, our Vice-President Mr. Hobbs, and our Board of Directors, all of whom take a lively interest in the affairs of your Bank. In addition I have appreciated the support of the Assistant General Managers, Mr. Mackersy and Mr. Proctor.

Double Liability For Bank Shareholders To End Jan. 1st

Toronto, November 23:—An historical note of interest to Bank Shareholders was mentioned today by Mr. I. K. Johnston, General Manager of Imperial Bank of Canada, in his address to shareholders at the 75th. Annual Meeting. It concerned the notes of Imperial Bank still in circulation, and he announced that this was the last time that this item would appear in the Bank's Financial Statement. It had appeared in the Statements ever since 1875 but within thirty days after the 1st of January, 1950 all Chartered Banks are required to pay to the Bank of Canada the face value of all their notes then outstanding. Thereafter the Bank of Canada will become responsible for the redemption of all bank notes, and the last vestige of what was known as the double liability of bank shareholders will no longer exist.

Devaluation Affects Many Countries

Toronto, November 23:—Commenting on the effects of devaluation Mr. R. S. Waldie, Chairman of the Board, Imperial Bank of Canada said in part: One of the external situations which profoundly affects the future of this country is that which recently gave rise to the drastic devaluation of sterling and many other currencies. In its immediate causes, it was related to the [illegible]. Purchases of raw materials by the United States from the sterling area, particularly rubber and tin, declined sharply, and sales of the United Kingdom manufactures in the United States also fell off. The sterling area was simply one of the victims of the general slow-up in purchasing occasioned by the desire to reduce inventories. When [illegible] danger, there occurred, of course, a [illegible] which made devaluation inevitable. [illegible] reasons, lay the fact that sterling prices were out of line with North American [illegible]. In part, insufficient progress had been made in improving the efficiency of production, but in part also prices and costs were set by the great demands of the home market and the sterling area for goods.

The potential benefit to be derived by the United Kingdom from devaluation is this, if the dollar prices of [illegible] dollar a[illegible] changed. In respect [illegible] on which dollar prices are cut, there will be an improvement in the competitive position of British goods in the dollar markets. [illegible] the advantages of devaluation may be quickly absorbed by rising costs in the United Kingdom, if inflation, whether it comes from government or private [illegible]

Canada's devaluation is an incident in this larger background. Opinions concerning it may differ. We should, however, note that while in 1946 United States prices were much higher than Canada, the indexes now show them to be lower. The sterling devaluation, if untempered by our own, would have greatly increased the cost of imports from Canada in all parts of the sterling area. The change in the exchange rate gives an incentive to increase our exports to the United States and [illegible] which should be helpful to our balance of payments.

Assets and Deposits At All Time High

Toronto, November 23:—Speaking to shareholders at the Annual Meeting today the General Manager said in part: "The seventy-fifth Annual Statement now before you shows total assets of $519,040,869, the highest figure yet attained. The increase for the year was $47,197,088.

PROFITS

The Profits before depreciation and taxes were $2,110,075, an increase of $273,497. Dominion and Provincial taxes amounted to $679,000. Dividends of $1.20 per share amounted to $840,000.

DEPOSITS

Deposits of $476,270,031, are also an all time high and show an increase for the year of $46,169,000. "We are happy to say we do not see any inflationary signs in these increases."

INVESTMENTS AND LOANS

Our investments not exceeding market value total $228,012,231, an increase of $26,769,000, short term Dominion securities being less by $5,826,000 due to the redemption by the Government of their Deposit Certificates, and longer term Dominions higher by $33,227,000—an ample portfolio of readily marketable securities.

Loans total $193,187,645, an increase of $9,877,000 of which $6,152,000 is in current loans and $3,825,000 is in loans to cities, towns and municipalities. These loans are widely diversified and [illegible] our full part in meeting the needs of our customers, both large and small. The great number of small customers makes their business important and very welcome.

BANK PREMISES AND BRANCHES

Bank Premises account, including [illegible], stands at $6,372,376, an increase of $233,000.

Our increasing business has made it necessary to renovate and enlarge many of our branches, and in the last few years the mechanizing of branches has been greatly increased. This machine equipment has been the means of improving working conditions considerably. We are keeping our offices as up-to-date and attractive as possible.

During the year the following branches were opened—Forest Hill [illegible] East Kildonan, Manitoba; Loon Lake, Saskatchewan; Mayerthorpe, Alberta, [illegible] Vancouver, British Columbia. Our new branch at Halifax, N.S., is our first in the Maritimes, and our staff who opened this branch were received with true Maritime hospitality. Including the above, we now have 208 branches, located as follows—Nova Scotia—1, [illegible]

Staff a Most Important Asset

Mr. J[illegible]

"During the year our staff increased 162 now numbering 2,553 of which 1,157 are young ladies. Expanding business and the opening of new [illegible] opportunities for promotion and go to show the progressive future which awaits young men of energy and talent who wish to take up a career with the Bank.

Our Staff is regarded as one of the most important assets the Bank has although of course it cannot be taken into the Balance Sheet. The steady increase in business which your Bank enjoys is due to the watchfulness and enterprise of our Managers and the efficiency, courtesy, and helpfulness of their Staffs, both men and young [illegible] conscientious, hard-working and efficient staff of this Bank."

Higher Prices In Canada Reduce Trade With U.S.

Toronto, November 23:—Mr. R. S. Waldie, Chairman of the Board, Imperial Bank of Canada, commenting on conditions in the United States, stated the recession in the United States, which was so frequently predicted over so long a period finally took shape during the past year. Business has been so active in Canada that perhaps insufficient attention has been given to conditions about which so much has been said in advance. The United States index of industrial production which stood at 194 in August, 1948, had fallen twelve months later to 170. Wholesale prices, which stood at a peak of almost 170 in August, 1948, declined in the next twelve months to 153, a decline of around 1% a month. There were 1,940,000 unemployed in August 1948, and this year the figure was 3,700,000.

These changes do not in themselves represent a serious recession, certainly not if we have already seen the full extent of it. But, they have not been without their effects on this country. Two years ago United States' wholesale prices, in comparison with pre-war levels were 18% higher than Canadian prices. Now United States prices are slightly lower than ours. This reversal has occasioned some difficulty in maintaining our exports to the United States. It has meant also that there has been some increase in imports which have been priced more attractively than our own production. The most notable increase in imports has been in steel where supply rather than price has been the decisive influence. There is no doubt that without the prohibitions and quotas which still apply under the Exchange Conservation Act, the increase of our imports from the United States would have been much greater. Whether the recession in the United States has run its course, it is difficult to say. There has been some revival in the late summer and fall but there are also some signs that the revival is losing strength.

Whatever the future course may be and despite the temporary advantage given by the devaluation of our dollar, it will be well for all Canadian businesses to watch carefully their position in relation to competition from the U[illegible]

Individual tenders are to be submitted in respect of each parcel.

If a tenderer is successful in his bid for both the S.E.¼ 17-58-26-W.4th and S.W.¼ 17-58-26-W.4th., they may be grouped for exploration purposes until such time as petroleum is discovered in one or both parcels.

The offer in each case must be accompanied by the full amount of the purchase price together with the rental at the rate of $1.00 per acre for the first year, and the lease fee of $5.00.

The purchase price, rental and fee must be in the form of a bank draft or certified cheque, payable to the Receiver General of Canada.

Tenders will be opened at Ottawa, Ontario, on December 5, 1949, at the close of business.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Tenders should be in plain envelopes marked "Tender re Petroleum and Natural Gas rights Parcel ……".

Specimen copies of the form of lease can be obtained from the undersigned.

Germany Accepts Internation'l Ruhr

BONN, Nov. 24.—(Reuters) — Western Germany has definitely agreed to accept international status for the Ruhr, Europe's great industrial centre, a highly-placed source close to the German government said today.

UP, AP Books Are Searched

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 24 — (UP) — A congressional committee investigating anti-Argentine activities today assigned accountants to inspect the books and accounts of the United Press and the Associated Press from Aug. 1, 1945.

Representatives of the committee first visited the UP office, explained their mission and left behind an accountant. Then they repeated the same procedure at the AP office.

The committee also stationed two uniformed police at the 4th-floor UP office.

Accountants were assigned by the committee yesterday to the daily newspapers La Prensa, La Nacion, Clarin and La Hora. The investigating committee is headed by National Deputy Jose Emilio Visca as president.

Queen, Princess Sing At Opera

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Queen and Princess Margaret sang in the opera last night with the rest of the audience. The Queen and the vivacious, 19-year-old Princess sat in the front row at a performance of Benjamin Britten's "Let's Make an Opera."

The audience is supposed to sing along with the cast in this work.

OIL

Shell Reserves 2 Million Acres

By Don Flach

Extensive Crown Exploration reservations have been obtained by Shell Oil Company in the northwest section of Alberta boosting the company's Alberta holdings to about 2,000,000 acres. The newly-acquired holding total 1,472,242 acres in two tracts.

Larger of the two tracts is made up of nine reservations totalling 888,242 acres and just north of the Wabiskaw Lakes, about 185 miles north of Edmonton. Remaining six holdings form a spread about 150 miles north of Peace River and extending north to Hay River, forming a block 25 miles square. This is the most northerly acreage held by any company or group in the province.

Shell Oil recently announced plans for a test well in the Calgary area to explore oil and gas possibilities.

In the Vegreville area, Socony Vacuum has commenced drilling a well about seven miles southwest of the town on lsd 14-20-51-15W4. At last report well was at 618 feet.

Superior Texaco Ranfurly, located a few miles east of the Socony well, is drilling ahead at 2,055 feet. Area being tested is about 15 miles north of the Viking Kinsella gasfield.

Texaco McColl B-9, on the west flank of the Redwater oilfield, only a quarter mile south of the Alberta Giant failure, has struck the D3 oil zone only 12 feet above the water level. One drillstem test recovered oil-cut mud. Further coring and testing is being done to determine production possibilities.

At the north end of the Redwater field, Texaco C-4 has been completed and established a potential of 576 barrels daily on a 14½ hour test run. C-5 is coring at 3,228 feet and C-3 has established bottom at 3,243 feet and running electrolog.

Imperial Jeffrey No. 1, wildcat 33 miles north of Edmonton in lsd-4-59-23W4, ran a 45-minute drillstem test of the interval from 2,881 to 2,917 feet and recovered a natural gas flow of 4,300,000 cubic feet per day. Flow later subsided to 3,840 cubic feet daily. No oil or water were recovered in the pipe Redwater production area lies about ten miles to the southeast.

FIELD EXTENDED

Redwater extension SCAP 9-17 is currently waiting on test and CAPP 4-23 has run production casing and is standing cemented. First well has proven one-and-one-half-mile northwest extension and the second a half-mile extension to the northeast.

Midway between Lac La Biche and Waterways, eight miles due west of Liesmer on the Christina River, Christina River, Hardy No. 1 is drilling at 212 feet and preparing to run surface casing. Well is being drilled under supervision of Pacific Petroleums for the U.S. firm of Benedum-Trees.

Calgary Oils Mainly Steady

CALGARY, Nov. 24.—Leading oils were mainly unchanged in a session of slow trade today on the Calgary Exchange. Total number of sales came to only 47,520.

Leduc Calmar and United were steady at 10¼ and 16½ respectively.

Coastal gained two points to close at 40, while Superior was up half a point at 43.

Princess dropped two points from yesterday's close of 39 and Mercury eased from 14½ to 13½.

Hargal was unchanged.

South African Loan A Failure

LONDON, Nov. 24—(Reuters)—South Africa's £10,000,000 ($31,000,000) loan floated in London yesterday proved the worst underwriting failure in recent memory on the gilt-edger market.

Only 16 per cent had been subscribed when the market closed.

Underwriters were left with 84 per cent of the loan, which carries 3½ per cent interest and is redeemable in 1965-67.

This was described in the market as "a dreadful result, showing a lack of money in London for such issues and absence of real confidence in the gilt-edged market."

South Africa's and Britain's political uncertainties were also mentioned as contributing to the failure of the loan.

Passport Seekers' Politics Not Queried

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP)—A. D. P. Heeney, undersecretary for external affairs, testified yesterday that Canadian passport authorities do not check "the political views of applicants" for passports.

He said the passport office doesn't scrutinize more than the identity of the applicant and the information required.

Local Cattle Rates Steady

EDMONTON, Nov. 24.—The local cattle market was fully steady today with good action reported on the normal receipts. Packer buyers showed good interest and graded their purchases leniently.

Practical top on good to choice steers was $20.50, with the odd sale up to $22. Bulk of the good to choice heifers realized $16 to $17.50.

With all better butcher cows in good demand, average price was $12 to $13.

Grade A hogs for shipment sold at $28, for local points at $26.75. Sows were steady at $14.50 liveweight, while good to choice lambs were unchanged at $19 to $21.

Receipts totalled: Cattle, 866; calves, 197; hogs, 1,903; and sheep, 371.

Food Store Chains Report Sales Up

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Gross sales of retail food store chains were 27 per cent higher last year than they were the year before.

The bureau of statistics reported today that 1948 sales totalled $393,723,000. There were 59 stores with 1,306 branches doing business, compared with 64 companies with 1,315 branches in 1947.

The bureau reported that 96.1 per cent of the business was done by companies with a gross of $1,000,000 or more.

Bank Clearings Up

Handlings of the Edmonton Bank Clearing House for the week ending Nov. 23 totalled $24,934,177. Total for the corresponding week of 1948 was $21,158,396.

Livestock Traffic

EDMONTON—Total receipts of cars trucked, driven and shipped by rail to local livestock agencies on Nov. 23: Cars 6, cattle [illegible], calves [illegible], hogs [illegible], sheep 129.

Shipments on Nov. 22: To country points, 3 cars cattle; to U.S.A., 8 cars cattle, 1 car calves; to Eastern Canada, 5 cars cattle, 4 cars hogs; to British Columbia, 6 cars hogs, 1 car cattle, 3 cars calves, 1 car sheep, calves and hogs.

SECURITIES DEALS UP, SAYS BUREAU

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP)—Canada's international securities transactions increased in September, and the dominion's sales of securities to other countries were $3,400,000 lower than purchases of foreign securities.

Total sales of Canadian securities abroad were $21,600,000, while Canadian purchases of foreign securities were $25,000,000.

For the first nine months of this year, sales have been $163,200,000 and purchases $168,200,000.

Stocks Weaken In Slow Trade

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Prices slipped quietly in one of the slowest sessions in recent months on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Industrials showed a few market leaders in the minus column.

Junior gold producers backed down under mild pressure, while base metals barely held their ground.

Western oils showed a slightly firmer tone in early dealings but gave way towards the close. Volume was about 700,000 shares.

The industrial board was practically at a standstill, as a holidaying New York market left the market to find its own path. Papers were mixed fractionally.

Pan Western was brisk in Western oils, climbing strongly at the opening but losing most of the advantage as the session progressed.

Futures Trade Dull, Narrow

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24—(CP)—All prices moved narrowly today in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. There was some support in buying, mainly by export houses.

At the close oats prices were ¼ lower to ⅛ higher; barley ⅛ higher; rye ¾ to ⅜ lower; and flax unchanged to 1 lower.

Oats received fair support from shippers, but trading was light in barley. Both grains showed a steady undertone. Rye eased under local selling.

In the export business reported, 700,000 bushels of wheat were allocated to the United Kingdom under the long term contract. The Republic of Ireland took 360,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, while Bolivia purchased 100,000.

Class two wheat prices remained unchanged at $2.33.

Dominion Bank Assets At Peak

Total assets of $426,000,000, highest in the history of the Dominion Bank, are shown in the bank's annual statement for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1949.

Net profits aggregated $1,001,195, while total deposits of $388,605,000 show a notable increase over last year's $358,501,000.

Non-interest bearing deposits by the public totalled $134,403,000, an increase of $8,600,000. Interest bearing deposits of $232,061,000 were up $18,466,000.

The bank's investments in securities decreased by $3,854,000 to stand at $158,481,000.

A significant feature of the statement is an increase of more than $24,000,000 in commercial loans and discounts in Canada.

The $157,047,000 total is an indication of the substantial demand for bank credit.

Montreal Stocks Drift Irregularly

MONTREAL, Nov. 24—(CP)—Stocks drifted along an irregular route near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market today.

Despite the dull trading, changes ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Industrial volume was 33,900 shares and mines had a turnover of approximately 99,900 shares.

Utilities were mixed and senior oils and base metals were fractionally easier. Mines were higher

Trade at New High in '48

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP)—Despite growing state monopolism in eastern Europe, Canada made the post-war world's trade boat on a crest of unprecedented prosperity in 1948.

This and other significant features of Canada's post-war trade highlight the trade department's annual report, made public yesterday.

The 80-page document, covering the fiscal year ended March 31, 1949, mixes the prosperity report with a grim reminder that state monopolism and bilateralism are continuing to flourish.

On the bright side, the department says:

Production, employment and trade in 1948 exceeded the high levels of 1947, while the investment boom continued unchecked.

The country made a recovery from the heavy debit trade balance in United States' favor.

Foreign industrialists showed renewed interest in establishing plants in Canada.

On the gloomy side there was a "growing tendency" by some countries, particularly in eastern Europe, to eliminate private trade and to establish state monopolies.

Dollar shortages continued to hamper Canadian trade.

Canada's foreign trade, totalling $5,750 million, reached a new high in 1948, while demand for Canadian goods, mainly in the United States, increased Canadian exports.

Canadian gold and dollar reserves, which fell to a dangerous low of about $470 million in 1947, recovered in 1948, due to a $636 million reduction in the debit balance with the United States.

This reduction was accompanied by an increase of 10 per cent in total trade between the two countries and to significant readjustment in the geographical pattern in Canadian foreign trade.

Exports to the United States touched a high of $1,501 million, compared with $1,034 million in 1947. Imports declined from $1,975 million to $1,806 million.
